All 86 hostages safe

Commandos return after daring rescue

BONN, West Germany (AP) — A West German commando force was flying home in triumph from East Africa today after a blitz raid on a hijacked Lufthansa airliner in which they rescued all 86 surviving hostages and killed three of the four hijackers.

Later in the night after the failure of the hijacking was announced, three of the imprisoned West German terrorists whose freedom the hijackers demanded committed suicide. A fourth terrorist on the list also tried to kill himself and was in critical condition.

The Entebbe-style rescue operation early today at Mogadishu, the capital of Somalia, provided "a very serious lesson for some people around the world on how to deal with terrorism," said a West German government spokesman.

President Carter congratulated the Bonn government for the "courage of their decision" to end the 4½-day hijacking without giving in to the hijackers' demands. Japanese Justice Minister Mitsuo Setoyama, whose government met the demands of Japanese hijackers two weeks ago, said the West German action "showed how to prevent hijacking."

Somali officials said nine passengers and one commando were slightly injured in the 10-minute raid and the terrorist who survived, a woman, was badly wounded. Lufthansa, the West German airline, said one other passenger was hospitalized "in a state of collapse." But all the hostages left Mogadishu this morning for home, Radio Somalia reported.

Most were Germans, but two Americans were reported among them. They were Christine M. Santiago, 44, of Santee, Calif., and her 5-year-old son, Leo. Mrs. Santiago has a heart condition.

The surviving hijacker, the lone woman in the Arabic-speaking gang, remained in a Mogadishu hospital, officials said.

The identities and nationalities of the terrorists remained in doubt. But Somali Information Minister Abduqadir Salad indicated that the three bodies were being sent to Germany.

The hijackers demanded the release of 11 imprisoned West German terrorists and two Palestinians in Turkish jails, along with $6 million in ransom. The couple who headed the list, Andreas Baader and his mistress, Gudrun Ensslin, committed suicide during the night in their cells, and two others on the list, Jan-Carl Raspe and Irmgard Moeller, slashed their wrists. Raspe died in a hospital during the morning, and Miss Moeller was reported in critical condition.

The only hostage killed was the chief pilot of the Lufthansa Boeing 737 jet, 37-year-old Juergen Schumann, whose body was put off the plane shortly after it landed in Mogadishu Sunday. Officials said he was shot Sunday while the plane sat at the airport in Aden, South Yemen, fifth of its six stops during its zigzag journey over Southern Europe and the Middle East to East Africa.

The raid, reminiscent of Israel's successful rescue at the Entebbe, Uganda, airport last year, was the first combat operation for the Border Guard Group 9 commando strike force, set up after the 1972 Munich Olympic massacre. Officials said the anti-terrorist specialists had rehearsed the attack well, practicing on an identical plane before being sent to Mogadishu.

Under cover of darkness, the raiders blasted open emergency exits over both wings of the twin-jet airliner. They poured into the passenger cabin hurling "blinding" grenades that stun with a flash of light and loud bang but emit no shrapnel.

They found that the hijackers had rigged the inside of the plane with explosives and poured gasoline over the aisle carpeting. The passengers had been strapped into their seats with their safety belts.

The hijackers apparently did not have enough time to ignite the gasoline or detonate the explosives.

"There was some shooting. ... There was no panic. The passengers were evacuated as fast as possible by sliding down inflated slides from the emergency exits," a Lufthansa spokesman said.

A Somali government spokesman said two of the hijackers were killed inside the plane and the third man was wounded and died in a hospital.

The Somalis said the raid was launched about 2:30 a.m. and lasted 10 minutes. German officials in Mogadishu radioed Bonn: "The job is finished."

The attack was made an hour before one of a series of deadlines set by the terrorists. The husband of one of the hostages said West German officials told him the hijackers had threatened to kill one hostage every five minutes after the deadline.

One West German government official said he felt "relief, but tempered relief. We must remember that the pilot was killed and they still have Schleyer. We don't know what happened to him."

The 11 West German terrorists whose freedom the hijackers demanded were the same demanded by the West German terrorists of the Red Army Front who kidnapped industrialist Hanns Martin Schleyer on Sept. 5 in Cologne. The kidnapers had threatened to kill Schleyer last Sunday unless Bonn gave in to the air pirates.

LOCAL PLANT EXPANSION BEGINS — William E. Giessegen (left), production manager of Thatcher Plastic Packaging, 2302 Kenskill Ave., turned the first foot of a 25,000 square-foot expansion project at the plant Monday. The company is expanding its facility to begin production of a new plastic tubing and to meet increased demands for their existing product lines, which have risen nearly 100 per cent since last year. Supervising Giessegen's effort is Stan Hannah, president of Modern Sales Construction Co. of Wilmington. Modern Sales, a local Armo building systems dealer, will build the new facility expected to be completed early next year.

Ground broken for expansion project at Thatcher factory

Record-Herald Staff Writer
Representatives of Thatcher Plastic Packaging Co. held ground breaking ceremonies Monday for a 25,000 square-foot expansion of the plant at 2302 Kenskill Ave.

Plant Manager Robert F. Weisshaar said the expansion project, which is expected to be completed in the early part of 1978, is needed to meet increased demands for the company's product lines. William E. Giessegen, production manager, noted the plant has doubled production this year over 1976.

The company, a division of Dart Industries, Inc., is also planning to begin production of a heat shrinkable plastic tubing called PVC. The expansion is also necessary to facilitate that production, the company officials said.

The Modern Sales Construction Co. in Wilmington, the local Armo building systems dealer, will build the additional facility. Stan Hannah, president of Modern Sales, said he expects to employ up to 15 workers at any one time during the construction phase.

Weisshaar said the company will need to "gradually" add personnel for the new and increased production later next year following completion of the project. Thatcher Plastics now employs about 100 workers. Earlier this fall, the officials added, the manufacturing company had increased its operating equipment nearly 100 per cent since last spring, which required the hiring of several new employees. The local plant currently manufactures plastic squeeze tubes and injection molded plastic closures. The production manager pointed out that the plastic tubes are decorated by an offset printing method and said he feels that printing technology sets the operation apart from many other

Commission submits bids for four new ambulances

Bids for the purchase of four ambulances and radio equipment for the emergency vehicles were submitted to the Ohio Emergency Medical Services for review Tuesday, according to the Fayette County Board of Commissioners.

The commissioners opened bids for the ambulances, which are expected to improve the county's emergency medical service, last week. However, the state must review the bids before acceptance can be finalized.

Commissioner Laurence A. (Bucky) Dumford was scheduled to submit the bids to Martin Eleks, the coordinator of the Ohio Emergency Medical Services, this afternoon.

Once the bids are accepted and contracts signed, it is hoped the four ambulances will be on the road in 90 to 120 days. Two of the ambulances will be stationed in Washington C.H., one in Jeffersonville, and the other in New Holland. All four vehicles will be manned by the Fayette County life squad.

The cost of the vehicles will be covered by a $90,000 grant received by the county two months ago.

Three bids were received on the ambulances. The low bid, $18,589 per vehicle, was submitted by the Horton Co. of Columbus.

Besides the ambulance bids, a

Shooting follows reported armed robbery

Greenfield man held in death of West Virginia state trooper

PARSONS, W. Va. — A 19-year-old Greenfield man has been charged with murder in the shooting death of a West Virginia State Highway Patrol trooper Friday.

Fredrick Dean Hamilton, a 1976 graduate of Greenfield McClain High School, will be arraigned on the murder charge after his release from a West Virginia Hospital which will reportedly come in the next day or two. He is presently listed in satisfactory condition suffering from a bullet wound in the leg.

The murder reportedly occurred at 10 p.m. Friday in the Tucker County Jail. Hamilton, who had been charged with armed robbery, kidnapping and car theft, was being transferred to the jail in Parsons, W. Va., located near the Maryland border, when a scuffle reportedly ensued.

Hamilton allegedly grabbed a service revolver from trooper Marshal M. Davisson and the gun discharged striking the trooper in the belt buckle. Davisson was not injured but was knocked to the floor.

A second shot from the revolver allegedly struck trooper Bruce T. Brown in the chest. Hamilton reportedly fired two more shots before he was shot in the leg by Parsons County Sheriff Darryl Pine.

Brown was rushed to a nearby hospital where he died later that evening.

Hamilton, who entered Elkins (W. Va.) College after graduating from high school, resided in Beverly, W. Va. He allegedly stole an automobile in Columbus, Ohio, early last week and drove the car to Cumberland, Md., on Thursday. There he went to a Chevrolet dealer and requested to drive a Corvette, authorities said.

The dealer instructed one of his salesman to accompany Hamilton during the test drive. Soon after the Corvette was driven off the lot, Hamilton reportedly drew a gun and had the salesman drive him to West Virginia.

The salesman was allegedly robbed and released on a mountain road in West Virginia. A short time later, Hamilton was arrested and jailed in Randolph County.

Friday, the two West Virginia Highway Patrol troopers picked Hamilton up and took him to the Tucker County Jail where the shooting occurred.

Hamilton reportedly was living alone in Beverly after he dropped out of college in June. He had played golf for Elkins College last fall, but he apparently became academically ineligible later in the year.

According to his college golf coach, he returned to school during the summer semester in an attempt to improve his grades.

Hamilton also played golf at McClain High School where he was an all-league selection and a top golfer in the state his senior year.

Hospital board okays 1978 budget measure

The Fayette County Memorial Hospital board of trustees approved a $4 million budget for 1978 at Monday night's regular board meeting.

Hospital administrator Robert L. Kunz submitted the budget which listed $3,988,000 in operating revenue and $4,030,000 in operating expenditures. Kunz told the board that the budget represented a 13 per cent increase in both expected revenue and expected expenditures over 1977.

Kunz also reported that 52 per cent of the budget or over $2 million would go to salaries. Approximately 10 per cent of the budget would go for services and 16 per cent would go for insurance and other payments mandated by state or federal laws.

The remaining 22 per cent of the budget went to various other operating expenses such as supplies.

Besides the 1978 operating budget, the board also approved the annual capital expenditures budget submitted by Kunz Monday.

It listed a total of $179,689 in capital improvement expenditures to replace old equipment and purchase new types of equipment.

Some of the new types of equipment covered in the 1978 capital expenditures budget is an air conditioning unit for the new dietary facility costing $25,000; new electrical switching gear, which distributes electricity to different departments, costing $35,000; and an electromyogram for use in physical therapy costing $10,500.

In other action Monday, the board accepted a bid from Mai-Kai Hot Mix, Inc., of Washington C.H. to blacktop the parking lot behind the hospital. The Fayette County Highway Department will assist in the project.

After the back parking lot is completed, Kunz reported, 50 new parking spaces will be opened up to the public on the front parking lot. All employees and staff members will use the back parking lot.

Kunz also submitted the monthly statistical report to the board Monday.

The hospital admitted 322 patients in September accounting for 1,875 patient days. The percentage of occupancy in the hospital was 62.36 per cent and 70.93 per cent in the medical-surgical wing.

The average stay per patient was 5.6 days and 5.9 days for patients in the medical-surgical wing.

There were 34 births recorded at the hospital in September.

The hospital lab conducted 9,428 tests. A total of 1,601 x-rays were taken, 397 physical therapy treatments were given, and 240 respiratory treatments were given.

The emergency room handled 1,565 patients last month and the hospital handled 166 surgical procedures, 75 major and 91 minor.

The actual expense per admission in September was $790.21. The national average was set at $1,476.

Hormones may cause cancer

Estrogen now comes with warning

WASHINGTON (AP) — The federal government, saying estrogen drugs may cause cancer if taken to excess, is requiring that warning brochures be given with every estrogen prescription starting today.

The Food and Drug Administration says women receiving the drugs must be told in plain language the risks of taking the female sex hormones.

The most serious risk is cancer of the lining of the uterus, FDA Commissioner Donald Kennedy said Monday. The risk increases if estrogens are used "too frequently or too long," he said, and can be five to 10 times greater than for a woman who has never taken estrogens.

The odds of developing gall bladder disease requiring surgery are 2½ times as great, he warned.

Five million American women now take estrogen drugs during and after menopause, and Kennedy said he hopes the warning brochure will reduce that number "at least by half."

The drug industry and doctors' groups have opposed the FDA labeling requirement in court, but so far without success.

The FDA first proposed its estrogen warning program in July, with the brochure requirement to take effect Sept. 20. The effective date was pushed back because of the court challenges.

In other health news:

—The House voted overwhelmingly Monday to prevent the FDA from enforcing its proposed ban on saccharin for 18 months. The Senate also has voted for an 18-month postponement, but the two houses must reconcile differences on whether the artificial sweetener should be sold with a warning label.

—The Environmental Defense Fund asked the FDA on Monday to require a cancer warning label on permanent hair dyes that the group said are used by 25 million American women.

Kennedy said the FDA has asked the National Cancer Institute to expedite a study on two suspect chemicals in hair dye, and "we'll take regulatory action if necessary after the results are final."

Dim picture painted for tax reform

WASHINGTON (AP) — A key congressman is telling President Carter his contemplated tax revisions try to do too much at once.

Without eliminating some of the controversial proposals, says Rep. Al Ullman, D-Ore., the plan would stand little chance this year in Congress.

Ullman, whose House Ways and Means Committee must work on Carter's tax plan when it is formally presented, says Congress cannot digest all the major reforms Carter wants in one year.

Ullman wants Carter to drop his request to end tax breaks on capital gains. Ullman also wants to keep alive the full business lunch tax deduction, which the Treasury Department wants to halve.

Ullman wants Carter's bill simply to restructure tax rates, make tax forms easier to fill out and encourage long-term business investments. He also supports ending double taxation on dividends.

"If we get bogged down in loopholes, we won't get a tax bill," Ullman told businessmen last weekend.

The administration Monday stuck to its position that the entire program should be acted on at once because some parts are dependent on others.

Judge lifts order

Vote law proponents cheer court's ruling

TOLEDO, Ohio (AP) — Proponents of a drive to repeal Ohio's instant voter registration law cheered a federal court ruling which allows the issue to appear on the Nov. 8 ballot in the form suggested by repeal-minded Secretary of State Ted Brown.

U.S. District Court Judge Nicholas Walinski on Monday lifted a temporary order which told Brown not to capitalize or underline words in his listing of the instant registration referendum, Issue 1, on the ballot.

Walinski lifted an order issued here Oct. 11 by U.S. District Court Judge Don Young. William Boyle, a member of the Lucas County Board of Elections and chairman of the county Democratic party, sought the order.

Young's temporary order prohibited Brown from listing Issue 1 with portions capitalized and underlined after Boyle alleged that use of those printing techniques placed "undue emphasis" on the issue.

number of other topics were discussed during Monday's board of commissioner meeting.

The commissioners announced they would open bids on fleet insurance on Nov. 7 at 11 a.m. The county's fleet insurance expires Nov. 11.

An extension was granted to Fayette County Engineer Donald Conley for submitting profiles on the M.S. Haines ditch project. The profiles were to be submitted Monday, but due to inclement weather Conley was given until Dec. 12 to submit the profiles.

The commissioners also voted to give the Church Women United $300 from the Crawford Fund to buy clothing for needy children and approved the appointment of Donald E. Wood to the regional and county zoning boards.

manufacturers of plastic items. With the addition of PVC production, the firm will become the only manufacturing plant in the United States to produce that kind of tubing, according to Weisshaar. He said the product, which is used on such things as dry cell batteries and electronic components, is currently only imported from manufacturers outside the U.S. PVC tubing is also used as a secondary seal on food containers, alcoholic beverages, for cosmetics and pharmaceutical products.

PVC is a supplement to cellulose seals produced at the company's parent plant in Muscatine, Iowa.

Chilly air

moves north

By The Associated Press
Skies were expected to clear a bit over sections of New England today as a storm that brought cold air, rain and some snow was moving north into Canada.

—The Agriculture Department said it intends to ban the chemical used to cure bacon, ham and other lunch meats unless manufacturers can prove the substance doesn't cause cancer.

In his news conference Monday, Kennedy called estrogens "valuable drugs with many beneficial purposes." But he said estrogens were not "essential therapy during the menopause, and certainly the least necessary use of estrogens is after menopause." He also said they do not keep skin soft or provide a feeling of youth.

Last year, the FDA instructed physicians to prescribe estrogens in the lowest possible doses for the shortest possible times, and to re-evaluate use of the drug every six months. The brochures for patients repeat that advice. They also warn that estrogens should never be used during pregnancy.

The FDA said the most commonly prescribed brand of estrogen drug is Premarin. Others are Estratab, Evex, Menest, Femogen and Ogen.

Stock market turns upward

NEW YORK (AP) — Stock prices turned upward today in buying ascribed to technical forces within the market.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrials edged up .78 to 821.12 in the first half hour.

Gainers took a slight lead over losers among New York Stock Exchange-listed issues.

Brokers said stocks attracted some "bargaining hunting" interest and covering of previous short positions after the market's broad decline of late.

But they also noted continued wariness over the prospect of a further rise in interest rates.

Alcon Laboratories was actively traded, up 1/4 at 39 after 9-point jump Monday, when Nestle S.A. of Switzerland proposed a $42-a-share offer for Alcon stock.

On Monday the Dow Jones industrials average dropped 1.30 to 820.34 following an 18.71-point loss last week. Declines nosed out advances by a 5-3 margin on the NYSE.

Big Board volume slowed to 17.34 million shares from 20.41 million in the previous session.

The NYSE's composite common-stock index dipped .05 to 51.19.

At the American Stock Exchange, the market value index fell .67 to 114.92.

Passive restraints okayed

In spite of silly arguments about the government's taking over control of our lives, Congress has wisely approved of mandatory passive restraint systems in new cars. It is unfortunate that the requirement will not fully take effect until the 1984 model year. From then on, however, such safety devices can be expected to save many lives.

Two kinds of devices are involved: air bags that inflate instantly when a crash is imminent, and automatic seat belts. The air bags have been by far the greatest source of controversy, and are most likely to be used by auto makers to comply with the Department of Transportation requirement.

The auto industry has diligently fanned the air bag controversy. Until the very last moment, Detroit was pounding away with claims that the air bags' cost had been understated and that the devices were not of proven reliability.

The economic argument is not very persuasive. It hinges mainly on claims that, while installation cost estimates may be accurate, the replacement cost has been played down. It is a fair guess that most people would accept the replacement cost with little question once the bag had functioned to prevent serious injury or death. Besides, such costs would be offset by the anticipated savings in insurance premiums and payments. As to the air bag's reliability, it must be acknowledged that it is not yet perfected. Yet though much was made in the Senate of unfavorable test results, this is one of the most thoroughly pre-tested of all safety devices.

We have gone for years with a very low percentage of motorists buckling their seatbelts, at a high cost in lives. The time has come - came long ago, in fact - to try passive restraints. If they save even half of the 9,000 lives a year that Transportation Secretary Brock Adams predicts, they'll be eminently worth the trouble and expense.

A WORD EDGEWISE....By John P. Roche

Color blind in one eye?

There is a surrealistic aura around the debate over the Bakke case. Since discussion of this "reverse discrimination" action, shortly to be decided by the Supreme Court, has rapidly become a growth industry, the facts can be summarized concisely. The University of California Medical School at Davis in 1969 instituted a two-track admissions system, saving 16 admissions slots for the "disadvantages."

The latter were not evaluated by the usual standards, but permitted to matriculate with substantially poorer academic backgrounds than the 84 on Track I. In practice whites were excluded from the category. Allan Bakke, turned down on Track I, discovered his record was better than most admitted on Track II and brought suit, claiming he was a victim of racial discrimination. The California Supreme Court agreed; its decision was appealed to the U.S. Supreme Court; rhetorical sluice gates opened.

As indicated here in the past, I have a special approach to "affirmative action." Faced with the choice between two candidates of equal talent, one white male and the other black or Hispanic or female (to take but three examples), I personally would choose one from the historically disadvantaged groups: not purely for the benefit of the person involved, but additionally because of the value I attribute to diversity. But under no circumstances would I go below the qualitative threshold.

Conversely, I am adamantly opposed to racial or sexual or ethnic quotas as in the Davis Track II system where, in a cosmetic quest for diversity, qualitative standards are rejected. Not only are quotas demeaning to the individuals involved - who are branded as dumb but chic - but they patently violate both the Fourteenth Amendment to the Constitution and the Civil Rights Act of 1964.

Indeed, those who have asked the Supreme Court to sustain the Davis quota system (including the United States Department of Justice) are in essence demanding the justices declare both the Equal Protection Clause of the Fourteenth Amendment and a provision of the 1964 statute based upon it unconstitutional. It took almost a century to get the Court to hold the Constitution color blind - in some of my early legal articles I inveighed against the constitutionality of "Jim Crow" - but now a number of pontiffs are arguing the Constitution need only be color blind in one eye.

Let us look at the Civil Rights Act provision the Court is supposed to ignore or overrule: "All persons shall be entitled to be free...from discrimination or segregation of any kind on the ground of race, color, religion, or national origin...by any law, statute, ordinance, regulation, rule or order of a State or any agency...thereof." The language is simple; debate on the floor of the Senate locked its intention in concrete: to obliterate these categories from American law.

Since they are weak on law, the proponents of the quota system, including Harvard, Columbia, Stanford and the University of Pennsylvania, have wandered off into pop sociology. The Friend of the Court brief submitted by the four universities - and vetted by the deans of their law schools - actually argues against a racially neutral standard of "disadvantage" on the ground that most of the poor and culturally deprived are white. "Once a color-blind preference for the disadvantaged was implemented...the number of minority applicants admitted would drop off sharply."

In other words, not content with endorsing a minority quota, they want disadvantaged whites to stay disadvantaged! (The subway diggers among my ancestors would have appreciated this generosity.) Another section of this brief should be put to music: "It has been the experience of many university teachers that the insights provided by the participation of minority students enrich the curriculum, broaden the teachers' scholarly interests, and protect them from insensitivity to minority perspectives."

This is touching. But the fact that law professors at Harvard, Columbia, Stanford and Penn underwent consciousness raising experiences is no basis for declaring the Equal Protection Clause of the Fourteenth Amendment unconstitutional. I also hope they aren't training a generation of law students to write briefs like this garish document in which "loyalty and friendship with particular individual (minority) students" has apparently precluded rational legal argument.

Dear Abby:

ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

Says men do not understand women

DEAR ABBY: You certainly opened a Pandora's box when you ran those letters from women who said sex was messy, sometimes painful, not worth the trouble, and that they could live without it.

I feel sure I have a better than average husband, but men are inept as lovers. (I am not a lesbian, and I do not have any such tendencies.)

Men do not begin to understand women, psychologically or sexually. Their attitudes about sex are selfish. (Me first and then you, if you can manage it.) Men make women feel as though there is something wrong with them if they're tired or have a headache, or just don't feel like it when the men do.

If men knew as little about their jobs or about their golf game, they wouldn't be able to earn a living or get off the first tee.

Worse, they won't listen, read or take suggestions. And if their sex life is a flop, they say that it's their woman's fault.

Sign me, Disappointed, Disgusted, and Desperate and

DEAD

DEAR D.D.D. AND DEAD: Your husband may be guilty as charged, but don't put ALL men in the same bag. My mail tells me that some men are wonderfully competent lovers. They're considerate, unselfish, tender and willing to read, listen and take criticism. All men are not alike any more than all women are. (Thank heavens.)

DEAR ABBY: The letters from wives who don't think sex is worth the trouble prompts this.

Can you imagine two people "in love," and expecting to marry, ask each other, "On a scale of zero to ten, how does your sex drive rate?" But such a determination, done perferably by outside counsel, would prevent many unhappy marriages.

Low (or no) sex drive does not apply only to women. Through folklore would have us believe that all men are highly sexed, it just isn't so.

For sexual compatibility, zeros should marry zeros, and tens should marry tens.

GEORGE

DEAR GEORGE: It wouldn't work. Some zeros when properly motivated and coached become tens. And some tens, due to some of the other aspects of marriage, become zeros.

DEAR ABBY: I don't know who started the "no-bra" fad, but there ought to be a law against it.

I'm sure women aren't aware of the irreversible damage they do themselves by going without brassieres.

The pictures in National Geographic magazine of African tribeswomen naked from the waist up should tell us something. Their breasts hang practically to their waists because they have never worn any kind of support.

Today we see bosomy young women on our streets with T-shirts and nothing on underneath. They're even seen on TV. (Now I know why it's called the "Boob tube.")

Abby, please rewrite this and tell the bra-less babes of today they will be the drooping dames of tomorrow.

GOOD SAMARITAN

DEAR SAM: No "rewriting" necessary. It's true. And the technical name for that condition is "Cooper's Droop Syndrome."

In 1898, the American flag was raised over Puerto Rico shortly before the island was ceded to the United States by Spain.

In 1892, the first coaxial long-distance telephone service began between New York and Chicago.

In 1944, in World War II, Soviet troops invaded Czechoslovakia.

In 1971, Soviet Premier Alexei Kosygin was attacked by a demonstrator on the grounds of Canada's parliament in Ottawa but he was not hurt.

Five years ago: Henry Kissinger arrived in Saigon for a major review of the military and political situation in Vietnam.

One year ago: A peace plan for Lebanon was signed by six Arab leaders in Saudi Arabia.

Today's birthdays: Greek actress Melina Mercouri is 51 years old.

Thought for today: You can't separate peace from freedom because no one can be at peace unless he has freedom - the late black leader Malcolm X.

"THIS YEAR I'M GETTING WINTERIZED FIRST."

Despite recent setbacks

Consumer agency seen

WASHINGTON (AP) — Esther Peterson says she is convinced that the drive for an independent consumer protection agency will succeed, despite recent setbacks. "I'm not going to say when," she adds, "but I certainly think in this Congress that decisions will be made."

Mrs. Peterson is President Carter's special assistant for consumer affairs. Her mission, she explained in a recent interview, "is ... to help get this bill (establishing a consumer agency) through Congress."

That job is proving more difficult than most people expected earlier in the year. Both houses of Congress passed similar bills last year, but, in the face of a threatened veto by President Ford, failed to produce compromise legislation.

With Carter's support, backers of the concept predicted victory in 1977. They now concede they would lose if the issue came to a vote today. Mrs. Peterson said the reason for the problem is twofold.

"Number one, it was a very safe vote for people in the other administration because many people who voted for it knew that the president would veto it ... and a lot of those people changed when it became a reality." They changed, she said, "because of the second reason, which is the extremely strong opposition that has come from (part of) the business community..."

She believes the trend will turn around before the end of 1978. She said there is a growing realization in government that the consumer's voice is important and a growing realization in business that consumerism can be profitable.

Comparing the consumer movement to the drives for organized labor, civil rights and women, Mrs. Peterson said, "My feeling now is the consumer movement is the next of the popular movements ... People who say that the consumer movement is on its way down, I think, are missing the signs on the wall. I think it's quite the opposite. I think we're just beginning to surface ... Change takes time. You have to have patience."

Mrs. Peterson, 70, has plenty of experience in change and time. A native of Provo, Utah, she has been in Washington since the late 1930s. She was assistant director of education for the Amalgamated Clothing Workers of America, served as the union's lobbyist, was an assistant secretary of labor under President Kennedy and was vice chairman of the President's Commission on the Status of Women.

Female crime study ended

BOWLING GREEN, Ohio (AP) — Two university sociologists here say they've verified a connection between a woman's race and the type of crime she might commit, but found no relationship between women's liberation and crime.

Dr. Stephen A. Cernkovich and Dr. Peggy C. Giordano, both assistant professors at Bowling Green State University, have completed one year of investigation of female delinquency and were awarded another $87,269 by the National Institute of Mental Health to continue the study.

The sociologists have surveyed 1,300 young men and women in the first year of the research and studied the relationship between crime and the women's movement.

"If anything, there was a negative correlation between the two," Dr. Giordano said, indicating that the consciousness-raising of the women's movement may steer some women from crime.

"White girls committed more delinquent acts, but they committed more status offenses and victimless crimes," Dr. Cernkovich said.

A status crime is one committed by a minor that would not be considered criminal if done by an adult. Truancy and running away from home are two examples.

The researchers noted, however, that while minority women commit fewer crimes, the ones they commit are often serious in nature.

They said their statistics showed that white women tend to engage in crime patterns similar to white men, and the same pattern holds between minority men and women.

In developing their findings, the sociologists studied the attitudes and behavior of young people in three Ohio detention facilities and two Columbus high schools.

In the next phase of their research they will survey inmates at the Marysville Reformatory for women. That data will be combined with what has been learned so far and fed into a computer for more precise categorization.

The researchers hope to have a final report ready by next July which will help, they say, police in dealing with juvenile crime.

Jailer disposed of probe data?

WILMINGTON, Ohio (AP) — A former deputy testified that Warren County Chief Jailer Don Settemire claimed he "burned and buried" records during a department investigation late last year.

The testimony came in opening statements Monday in the trial of Settemire, 49, who is charged with tampering with evidence, obstruction of justice and perjury. He was among six persons indicted by a grand jury after a probe into the office of Warren County Sheriff Roy Wallace.

Robert Cole, fired in April by Wallace as deputy and chief of detectives, testified that Settemire said he disposed of records showing $1.50-per-assignment kickbacks from special deputies.

Settemire allegedly kept $1.00 per assignment as the scheduling officer. The rest went into a special activities fund for the deputies, Wallace said.

Cole told Clinton County Common Pleas Court Judge Paul E. Riley, who is hearing the case without a jury, that Settemire said he would make up new records "that wouldn't show how much money he had taken in."

Cole said the $1.50 fee "was wrong...it's wrong when you ask for a buck and a half for every day that he works. I worked their 4½ years. I knew what was going on. If they (deputies) didn't pay, they didn't work."

Riley is hearing the case as the result of a change of venue from Warren County.

Wallace also faces trial in November on a charge of soliciting improper compensation.

What happens as a child's foot grows?

As a child's foot grows, the ball of the foot moves forward into the narrower part of the shoe, and naturally the toes are crowded at the end of the shoe. This can cause several serious problems such as ingrown toenails, hammer toes, and corns.

With the ball of the foot moving forward into a narrower part of the shoe, you can develop bunions, fallen metatarsal arch and callouses. It is shameful to see this condition in growing children. While it is not too painful for them, the condition will become serious and painful later on.

If parents will make sure that their children's shoes have adequate toe room by a heel-to-ball and heel-to-toe measurement (explained in earlier columns), then the problem of crowded toes should not occur. While the shoes are being worn, bring the children in for a checkup — each month for the very young, each two to four months for older children — to avoid the danger of outgrown shoes. This is especially true in summer, when the feet grow faster.

Cooking schools in Japan are growing in popularity

By KATHRYN TOLBERT

TOKYO (AP) — The heat of dozens of cooking fires in the smoke-filled room brought beads of perspiration to the faces of 150 young women as they stirred a fried rice dish in a Tokyo cooking school.

Teachers in white uniforms at one end of the room gave instructions over microphones and an occasional tinkle of broken glass or screech of dismay could be heard over the general din.

Gradually the noise died down as the tables of six girls each finished cooking and sat down to eat. The smoke filtered out of the room and the heat abated a little, but the aproned figures were too tired for much conversation.

They sipped green tea and quietly ate the meal that most had cooked for the first time.

The scene takes place 24 times a week throughout the year at the Tokyo branch of the Masaru Doi Cooking School, one of the largest in Japan.

Cooking schools here, unlike Cordon Bleu or La Varenne, are not the place for foreign visitors to pick up some of the spice of the Orient.

They are numerous — thousands throughout the country — crowded with mostly young girls, and taught only in Japanese. It takes many weeks of lessons to accumulate enough knowledge to put together a simple Japanese meal.

The intricacies of Japanese cuisine are seldom explored outside Japan. But for women here, it is essential to know how many seconds to leave dried bonito flakes in boiling water to prepare a basic soup stock, how to clean fish or choose an octopus.

A year of weekly cooking lessons is nearly a prerequisite for marriage, like the arts of tea ceremony or flower arrangement.

Doi has one school in Tokyo, one in Kobe and five in Osaka, with a total enrollment of about 20,000. A typical lesson begins with a lecture demonstration of a complete meal, usually soup, entree and salad or side dish.

Television monitors are hung from the ceiling throughout the room. After the lecture, the students divide into groups of six to cook the meal, while a group of instructors wanders about the room to check on their progress. General directions are given over a microphone.

Doi gives two reasons for the popularity of cooking schools in Japan. One is that the Japanese diet is one of the most varied in the world, with Chinese, Japanese and Western dishes equally popular.

"In other countries, when people want to have Chinese food, they go out to a restaurant, but in Japan we want to turn everything into home cooking, so lessons are necessary," he said.

Another reason is that cooking is not being passed on from generation to generation.

"During the war (World War II) there was very little to eat and what there was, wasn't delicious," he said. "So a whole generation could not pass on their cooking traditions to their daughters. Of course, there still are many homes where this is done, but older people only know how to cook fish and not meat, which is popular among the young today."

And Japanese cooking, he said, is difficult.

"It is the kind of cuisine that requires we be able to taste each ingredient," he said. "Western food is its sauce, Chinese food is its mixture, but Japanese food is simply the thing we are serving."

Japanese food continues to be a combination of the old and new. East and West. Fried bean curd in soy sauce goes back to the beginning of Japanese history. The regular beginners' course at the Doi School offers Chinese, Western and Japanese cuisine, going from a Chinese sweet and sour pork dish one week to spaghetti the next.

The fame of the school is due partly to Doi's regular television cooking programs over the past 25 years.

The times have changed since his first appearances, when he started out cooking over coal. Then he used kerosene, electricity and now propane gas.

At one time the lighting gave off so much heat that the utensils became too hot to pick up, not to mention wilting the lettuce. Now television technology is much improved, he added. The way Doi sees it, cooking is television's longest-running program.

Although Doi was taught cooking by his mother, he does not think men should cook and does not admit male students to his classes.

"For men, cooking is all right for leisure, but traditionally in Japan men were not even allowed in the kitchen. Even today many women only look after the home while their husbands go out to work. This is an old custom."

"So for the housewife, cooking is her biggest and most important work — the thing that has the most value. Men should not take this away from her. When men cook, they just use a lot of ingredients and don't clean up afterward."

Car, fence damaged

Greenfield man cited after rural accident

A driver sideswiped a car and collided with a fence along Flakes Ford Road just east of Creek Road Saturday night. Fayette County sheriff's deputies reported no one was injured in the crash, which occurred about 9:35 p.m.

Investigating deputies cited Stephen M. Smith, 21, of Greenfield, for driving while intoxicated. He was eastbound on Flakes Ford Road when he drove left of center and sideswiped a westbound vehicle, driven by Paul R. Bowers, 59, Leesburg. Sheriff's deputies stated Smith lost control after the impact and his car travelled into a ditch about 100 feet off the left roadside where it struck a fence.

The impact also sent Bowers' car into the ditch for about 100 feet before it veered back on the road and stopped. Both cars sustained moderate damage.

A Columbus man escaped injury in a severe single-car accident on U.S. 62 Tuesday morning.

Gregory D. Jackson, 21, of Columbus, while southbound on U.S. 62, lost control of his pickup truck after the vehicle dropped off the right berm and struck a mailbox at 3676 U.S. 62-NE. According to a sheriff's department report, the truck swerved, ran off the right side again and upset on the passenger side about 7:34 this morning.

The truck was severely damaged, but sheriff's deputies reported Jackson was not injured.

Sheriff's deputies also reported a hit and run accident in the parking lot of the Mugs and Jugs tavern, 1309 U.S. 35-SE, Monday.

A parked car belonging to Stephen A. Self, 27, of 113 W. Paint St., reportedly received moderate damage when it was struck in the passenger door by another car. The other car backed out of a parking space striking Self's car and then left the scene. Self told sheriff's deputies the accident occurred sometime between 6:25 and 6:55 p.m.

Three rods of fence were damaged early Sunday when a Frankfort man lost control of his car on U.S. 35 just east of Camp Grove Road.

Stuart A. Shafer, 21, of Frankfort, lost control of his car when a front tire blew out, sheriff's deputies reported. The car ran over 80 feet off the right roadside and struck the fence. He was not injured.

A rear-end collision Monday on N. North Street near E. Temple Street moderately damaged one car, according to a Washington C.H. Police Department report.

Police officers cited Charles W. Mills Jr., 50, of 1278 Bloomingburg-New Holland Road, after he struck another vehicle stopped in traffic on N. North Street about 11:50 a.m. Mills' single-body truck received moderate damage.

The car, driven by Ricky J. Hart, 18, of Jeffersonville, was only slightly damaged. Neither driver was injured, according to the police report.

Prayer breakfast draws 20 persons

There were 20 persons in attendance at the teen prayer breakfast which was held at the South Side Church of Christ Tuesday morning.

Bro. Marvin Ringer conducted the devotional period using the scripture found in Matthew 24.

The group assembled in the Fellowship Hall and were led in group singing by Michelle Ford, a freshman at Miami Trace. LaVonne Creamer accompanied on the piano.

A breakfast of scrambled eggs with ham, blueberry muffins, butter, jelly, applesauce, milk and juice was served by Frances Starkey, Gail Smith, Viva Johnson and LaVonne Creamer.

The student devotion was given by Randy Slutz, a senior at Miami Trace. His discussion centered around the analogy of your life as it is in reality and as a pilot of a plane. He said "that when you come to the age of knowing right from wrong, this is when you take off on your flight. In the plane you have an auto-pilot and he likened this to Jesus in your life. You also have passengers to be responsible for and in life there are those whom you influence by your daily living and you are responsible to those people to help them set their course."

The next teen prayer breakfast will be held Tuesday, Oct. 26 at 6:45 a.m. All teens, grades 9-12 are welcome as well as all teachers.

Municipal Court

Two men were found guilty of disorderly conduct by intoxication Monday in Washington C.H. Municipal Court.

Randolph W. Badger, 21, of Bradenton, Fla., was convicted on the charge and fined $50 and costs. He had been arrested by Fayette County sheriff's deputies on Sunday.

William K. Wilcox, 44, of Louisville, Ky., was fined $25 and court costs following his conviction on the disorderly charge. He was arrested last Friday by Washington C.H. police officers.

A local man, Donald R. Clickner, 37, of 627 Harrison St., signed a waiver on a charge of disorderly conduct Monday and paid a $65 fine and costs. Local police officers arrested him Saturday on a private warrant.

A Lyndon youth, 19-year-old Carl R. Kinzer Jr., signed a waiver for a littering violation. He paid a $47 fine including court costs. Fayette County game protectors cited Kinzer on Sept. 4.

Traffic Court

Six persons were convicted of driving while intoxicated in Washington C.H. Municipal Court Monday.

Municipal Court Judge John P. Case found Guy L. Coen, 61, of Hammondsville, guilty of drunk driving and sentenced him to 15 days in the Fayette County jail. Judge Case gave Coen credit for three days he has already served since his arrest Friday by Ohio Highway Patrol officers.

The judge also revoked Coen's driver's license and fined him $200 and costs.

Leesburg resident, Edson E. Wagner, 28, was sentenced to 10 days in the county jail following his conviction with four days suspended pending one year good behavior. He was fined $400 and costs and his driver's license was suspended for 90 days.

Wagner was arrested by state troopers Sunday after he drove left of center. He was also found guilty of that violation and Judge Case fined another $25 and court costs.

Victor E. Bennett, 40, of 1268 Ohio 38, received a four-day sentence in the city jail and was fined $400, plus costs. His driver's license was suspended for six months, but the Municipal Court judge gave him permission to drive to and from work providing he prove the purchase of high risk insurance.

Washington C.H. police officers arrested Bennett on that charge and for failure to control following a traffic accident Saturday along the 600 block of N. North Street. He was found guilty of the other charge and fined $25 and costs.

Judge Case sentenced 18-year-old Randy L. Farmer, 411 Rawlings St., to three days in the city jail after convicting him of drink driving. He was fined $150, plus costs, and his driver's license was suspended for 90 days.

Farmer drove left of center near S. Elm and E. Elm streets on Oct. 9 and was arrested by local police officers. He was found guilty of the other charge and fined another $25 and costs.

Two other men were found guilty of driving while intoxicated and each sentenced to three days in the county jail.

Both Steve M. Smith, 21, of Greenfield, and William E. Wilson, 26, of 902 E. Temple St., were arrested by Fayette County sheriff's deputies Saturday. They were each fined $200 and court costs and their driver's licenses were suspended for 90-days.

Smith was cited in connection with a traffic accident on Flakes Ford Road.

A Bainbridge man, Marvin E. Knapp, 35, received a 10-day suspended jail sentence after being convicted of his second speeding violation within a 12-month period. Judge Case suspended the sentence pending one year good behavior, but fined the man $150, plus costs.

Ohio Highway Patrol officers also charged Knapp with fleeing police officers on Sept. 30 after finally stopping him on Ohio 41-S. He was fined another $100 and costs for that violation.

Judge Case found a Bloomingburg man, Gary T. Petty, 26, and Oliver E. Thompson, 21, of Leesburg, both guilty of driving while under suspension.

Petty received a 10-day suspended sentence and a $75-fine, plus costs. Local police officers cited him Sunday. Thompson, cited Oct. 5 by highway patrol officers, was sentenced to two days in the county jail and fined $100 and costs. He had also been cited for driving left of center and was fined an additional $35 and court costs for that offense.

Arrested on a Municipal Court bench warrant Sunday by Fayette County sheriff's deputies, Ronnie G. Glassco, 34, of New Holland, was sentenced to three days in the county jail for violating a condition of a previous conviction.

Glassco had been convicted of driving while intoxicated on Mar. 8 and failed to serve out a sentence Judge Case had imposed on him at that time.

Stems from drugstore fire

Local boy arrested on charge of arson

A Washington C.H. youth has been arrested in connection with the setting of a fire last month at the Downtown Drug Store, 211 E. Court St.

Washington C.H. Police Specialist Larry E. Walker said a 17-year-old boy was arrested Monday following a joint investigation by police officers and Washington C.H. Fire Department officials.

The Sept. 30 fire had started in a stairwell to the basement of the store. Fire officials had reported the fire, which resulted in only minor smoke damage to the building, was possibly set in a pile of wadded papers. No one was injured in that incident.

The youth was charged by police with arson and was released to the custody of his parents pending a hearing in the Fayette County Juvenile Court.

A 14-year-old Washington C.H. boy was also arrested Monday when police officers responded to a burglary complaint at the First Baptist Church, 301 East St.

The youth was allegedly caught in the building by a church employee who had investigated an "unusual" noise about 4 p.m. Police officers were called and they took the boy into custody, charging him with burglary.

Pending further disposition of the case in the county juvenile court, the youth was released to his parents' custody.

A 74-year-old man was arrested in connection with an assault incident Monday at an E. Market Street residence.

Police officers reported Samuel R. Bowers, 74, 930 E. Market St., was arrested following a disturbance at his residence around 5:05 p.m. Monday. He allegedly injured Oliver Peters, also of 930 E. Market St., when Peters attempted to stop Bowers from striking another person with a cane.

Peters suffered injuries to his right hand in the dispute, which apparently began because of a loud radio, according to the police department report.

Charged with disorderly conduct, Bowers is currently being held in the city jail awaiting a hearing in Washington C.H. Municipal Court.

Participation doubles previous year

City school board receives parent-teacher meet report

By PHIL LEWIS
Record-Herald City Editor

Participation in the annual parent-teacher conference day activities held last week at Washington Senior High School was more than double the previous year's turnout, according to Superintendent Edwin Nestor.

Nestor told the Washington C.H. Board of Education Monday that 120 parents attended the conference day activities held Thursday evening. Last year, only 45 parents attended conferences with their children's teachers.

The figures released to the board Monday night did not include 14 parents who could not attend a private conference last Thursday, but who did attend a teacher's conference period after school.

Nestor reported that participation was also good on the elementary school level, but he wasn't pleased with the participation at the middle school.

A second parent-teacher conference half-day is slated for today in the city elementary schools. The high school, middle school and kindergarten had classes as usual today.

During Monday's regular meeting, the board approved a preliminary plan submitted by Ms. Maria Luque to take some of her French and Spanish students to Europe this spring.

A report of the planned trip was submitted to the board. It stated that the cost of the nine-day tour would be $675 per person. The cost includes round trip transportation from New York, all surface transportation in Europe, rooms, breakfasts and dinners.

The students will be spending a majority of the trip in Madrid and Paris.

Nestor recommended the approval of the trip, but stated he felt it should be limited to high school juniors and seniors.

IN OTHER action, the board:

—Approved the publishing of a district report to be issued to city residents during the first week of November. The printing and distribution will be handled by the Record-Herald;

—Accepted the resignation of Mrs. Sandra Stevenson, a lunchroom employee, and Orlin Bell, a night custodian at the high school;

—Employed Mrs. Kathryn Lynd as a tutor for home-bound students and Mrs. Charmaine Kirk as a Community Education macrame instructor;

—Approved a maternity leave request from Mrs. Christy Duncan and a two-day personal leave of absence for Miss Mary Ann Binzel;

—Was reminded that a COTA meeting was scheduled in Columbus Friday and the teachers would not be in school;

—Learned that the Community Education-sponsored Offsides game, which was held Saturday, brought in approximately $2,000; and —Learned that Saturday's auction of used home economics applicances and school desk brought in $484.25.

Local youth named winner of FFA's regional award

Tim Schaefer, son of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Schaefer, 11102 Ohio 38-NE, has been selected as the Eastern Regional Swine Proficiency Award winner.

As the eastern region winner, Schaefer will be a guest of the National Future Farmers of America (FFA) Foundation at the annual FFA convention Nov. 8-11 in Kansas City, Mo.

In addition, Schaefer will receive a cash award of $250, and if he is selected as the national winner, he will receive an additional $500. He will be competing for the honor with three other FFA members from Iowa, Florida, and Washington.

The eastern region which he will be representing includes Ohio and 13 other states.

Schaefer was selected as the district winner last winter and the state winner as the state FFA convention in April. As the district winner he received a trophy and $25 from the Ohio FFA Foundation. As the state winner he received a plaque from the Ohio FFA Foundation and $100 from the Pfizer Co., the sponsor of the swine proficiency award.

His project this past year was 111 sows and litters and 778 market pigs. He and his brother, Bill, are partners in the swine operation on their father's farm.

Schaefer serves as treasurer of the Miami Trace High School FFA chapter. He was a member of the land judging team and a member of the award-winning parliamentary procedure team.

Night Owls club confronted with heavy agenda at meet

The Fayette County Night Owls Citizens Radio Club were confronted with a full agenda at the recent monthly meeting in the Foine Arts Building.

A complete financial report on the recent jamboree was submitted by Mrs. Jean Yarger, club treasurer. The members then voted to donate 25 percent of the proceeds to the Chamber of Commerce for its assistance during the year.

The members agreed to continue, for a second year, the purchasing of gifts for the children in the Fayette County Children's Home during the Christmas holidays.

A new project taken on by the club was the purchasing of a wheelchair to be loaned to club members or their immediate families. The board of directors was then appointed to consider making another purchase of either a second wheelchair or a walker.

Members participating in the charity bazaar which was held at the shopping center were thanked and it was agreed that the proceeds raised would go toward the purchase of a public address system for the club.

Entering a float in the Christmas parade was agreed upon and Mrs. Dale Everhart Jr. was appointed to establish a committee.

Donald Kinney accepted the nominations made for officers for the coming year. Those nominated for president were David Brickles, Jon Merritt, and Nelson McCann. For vice president were Bob Whitaker, Charlie Johnson, Cliff Warner, and Janet Rice. A motion was made to close the nominations after motions were made to re-elect Debbie Baughn as secretary and Jean Yarger as treasurer. The motion was then seconded and the motion carried.

Cliff Warner won the monthly jackpot and door prizes were won by Karen Everhart, Bert Yarger, Roger Shackelford, Susan Speck, Dorothy Johnson, and Virginia Short.

Guest speakers were Washington C.H. police officers Bill Robinson and Bill Cales. The topic was marijuana as they displayed a marijuana plant and demonstrated the smell of marijuana burning.

After the meeting was adjourned, a farewell was held in the honor of Dr. and Mrs. Lou Steininger as they have accepted as position in Chicago, Ill.

The next meeting of the club will be Nov. 19, in the Fine Arts building and the election of officers will be held.

Temperatures warmed overnight and by early today, readings were in the mid to upper 40s — generally 10 to 20 degrees above Monday's levels.

Clouds covered eastern Ohio at daybreak and showers were reported in the northeastern counties. These showers were moving rapidly eastward and were expected to be out of the state by sunrise.

A low pressure system over Lake Superior was moving southeastward, produced a band of clouds between Minnesota and Michigan. These clouds were expected to move into northern Ohio by evening, accompanied by scattered rainshowers.

Canfora attempts to stop recall

BARBERTON, Ohio (AP) — Barberton Councilman Albert Canfora, whose involvement in Kent State University demonstrations angered some of his constituents, says that even if he is recalled in today's special election, it will not end his political career.

Before attending a council meeting Monday night, Canfora said he was being persecuted for taking an unpopular stand, but that he will continue to defend his reputation both in the courts and in his public career.

Canfora's involvement in demonstrations protesting the construction of a gym annex near the site of the 1970 Kent State shootings, led to a backlash of public opinion.

If he should lose, Canfora would be eligible to run for his council seat in a general election.

A last-minute effort by Canfora to stop the election was denied Monday by the 9th District Court of Appeal. Canfora contended that the recall petitions contain discrepancies and irregularities.

Last week, Summit County Common Pleas Court Judge Evan Reed ruled that there was "no real proof" of any fraud or impropriety in the petitions validated by the board of elections and said it was too late to stop the election machinery.

The recall petitions were circulated after Canfora, his wife Ann, and their four children were arrested in a July 12 demonstration at Kent State. Altogether, members of the family have been arrested 15 times over the last few months in connection with the Kent State protest.

A loaf of bread, a jug of wine and a big fat federal contract

By JACK ANDERSON
WASHINGTON — The wining and dining of Pentagon procurement officers apparently has become a major industry. A confidential congressional study charges that defense contractors have spent "several million dollars annually" on this sort of revelry. Such massive entertaining, the report adds gravely, presents "a threat of significant proportions to the integrity of public contracts and the procurement process." Many a contract is consummated over a shotgun barrel in a fog-sheathed duck blind. Or some inside information, worth millions to a contractor, might be dropped casually on a golf green. The way to a defense contract may also be greased by booze and blondes at a swinging night club. The congressional study found

"repeated hospitality to many of the same federal employees." They weren't shown a good time for the pleasure of their company, the report suggests. More likely, the contractor hoped in return for his largess "to obtain advance or inside information and to secure preferential treatment in the course of doing business with the government."

Two years ago, we wrote a series of columns about defense and space officials accepting free hunting and ski trips from military contractors. We identified the hosts as the giant Northrop and Rockwell corporations, which were called on the carpet by Sen. William Proxmire, D-Wis., chairman of the Joint Committee on Defense Production.

The publicity died down, but the committee continued its investigation. Painstakingly, the committee examined the entertainment practices of more than 40 leading defense contractors. The report, just completed, is still confidential. However, we can reveal the highlights:

The report listed these gratuities, which contractors commonly make available to government procurement people: "Tickets to sporting and cultural events; hunting, fishing, golfing or similar recreational outings; entertainment and meals; dinners, balls, banquets and night clubs; transportation, lodging, meals and refreshments, especially in connection with hospitality suites at professional meetings; and visits to lodges and resorts."

The committee determined, for example, that at least 30 of the 41 contractors surveyed had given government officials tickets to sporting and cultural events. During the three years covered by the survey, 30 companies had sponsored about 1,200 hospitality suites, where the booze flowed freely. At least 35 of the companies acknowledged purchasing meals for government employees.

At least 16 firms sponsored sporting activities that included government officials. These activities ranged from golfing matches to hunting trips. Some corporations paid for transportation, hunting licenses, ammunition, meals and lodging, hunting and guide fees. Some even arranged for the preparation of the game.

The acceptance of the aforementioned favors, the report charges, violates a 1965 executive order. "Entertainment of government officials," cautions the report, "can undermine the integrity of government contracts." For instance, a contractor may obtain intelligence or advance information on government requirements and specifications, thereby gaining an unfair advantage over his competitors.

One witness, interviewed by an investigator for the National Aeronautics and Space Administration, stressed that "one of the purposes of developing liaisons with NASA employees was to develop inside sources who could be telephoned for advance or inside information." Anyone who provides such information, the committee warns sternly, "is in violation of departmental standards of conduct."

The committee scolds the Defense

Department for failing to investigate more aggressively the massive entertaining of Pentagon brass. But NASA gets a commendation for its vigorous policing of corporate back-scratching.

The study notes that the 1975 hunting-lodge scandals led to new Defense Department standards, thus offering "hope that acceptance of gratuities by federal officials will be halted." But the committee criticizes "the absence of meaningful penalties for corporations or corporate representatives who offer prohibited gratuities."

Many corporations, in the spirit of repentance, announced they stopped handing out favors after the 1975 scandal. But the report points out wryly that similar scandals in 1959 and 1967 did not change corporate habits. What is needed, the report again suggests, is a stronger legal deterrent.

Some of the same corporations that fork over favors to federal officials, ironically, have strict rules against the acceptance of gratuities by their own employees from suppliers or sub-contractors.

Footnote: Unaccountably, Congress has rewarded the Joint Committee for its diligence by abolishing it and transferring its investigative functions to the Senate Banking Committee.

Costly Shuffle: The new Department of Energy is open for business, but Secretary James Schlesinger and his staff don't have a permanent address. They were supposed to move into the Defense Department's James Forrestal Building on October 1st. But the building still isn't available so the Department of Energy is now spread out all over the Capital.

When the military brass hats are finally booted out against their wishes, the Energy Department will move in and the costs will be high. General Services Administrator Joel Solomon, in a memorandum to Schlesinger, predicted the shuffle, earlier estimated at $6.9 million, will now cost the taxpayers a whopping $22 million.

Three challenges presented

Kiwanis holds President's Conference

The Washington C.H. Kiwanis Club held its annual President's Conference meeting Monday night at the Terrace Lounge restaurant.

The annual conference is required by Kiwanis International of each incoming president during his first month of office. Newly elected president Gerald Ragland presided over the meeting.

Ragland presented three challenges to club members Monday night.

The first was growth in membership. Each local Kiwanis Club member was urged to bring at least one potential member to a club meeting by April 1.

The other challenges were to greet all guests and make them feel welcome, to wear the Kiwanis pin at all times, to insure that committee chairman meet deadlines, and to do a good job of public relations for the Kiwanis.

Ragland also discussed the second step of a Kiwanis International project which lists ways to safeguard against crime.

The new president said the project had four goals.

The first was to create a greater understanding among all people for the necessity of establishing safeguards against crime.

The second was to provide information to people on ways to safeguard their property. The third was to establish services to help people establish such safeguards and the final goal was to stimulate a greater understanding of local law enforcement agencies in maintaining crime safeguards.

Ragland also urged all local club members to attend the Oct. 24 President's Party. The local club will host all the of Kiwanis Club presidents in the district.

A board of directors meeting followed the president's conference. Items considered at the meeting were the approval of attendance procedure rules, the entering of a float in the annual Washington C.H. Christmas parade, and the establishing of a date for the annual Teen Talent Show this spring.

Also at the meeting, George Gibbs was presented a 13-year perfect attendance pin to George Gibbs.

Five members of the Columbus Hilltop Club were guests at the meeting and Gary Stout was a guest of Ron Lott.

Kiwanis starts second phase of community service project

The Washington C.H. Kiwanis Club has launched the second phase of its community service program, "Safeguard Against Crime," according to club president Gerald Ragland.

The second phase will be concerned primarily with crime as it relates to children and young people. It will seek to develop among younger area residents attitudes which will have a deterrent effect upon crime; to demonstrate to them, their parents, and teachers how they can be protected against the hazards of crime; to outline to the public the type of crimes frequently committed by young people and methods of combating and preventing such crimes; and to encourage young people to become involved in anti-crime activities.

"This is a natural extension of the original program which began last year," said Ragland.

"Initially, the program was aimed at bringing to the attention of the public, the dramatic increase in crime against persons and property, and describing to the public the ways in which individuals could prevent such crimes," Ragland said. "The program was primarily one of education and was in no way a vigilante effort."

The crime prevention program, which enjoyed wide participation by Kiwanis clubs both in the U.S. and Canada, was originally developed with the support and cooperation of the Federal Bureau of Investigation (FBI) in the U.S. and the Royal Canadian Mounted Police in Canada. The program's second phase also has that support plus professional advice and assistance from such organizations as the American Bar Association, the National Council on Crime and Delinquency, and the Block Parent program. Local authorities are cooperating with the Kiwanis Club in the operation of the program.

Overdose incident reported to police

A 1½-year-old Clinton Avenue girl was rushed to Fayette County Memorial Hospital after taking an overdose of pills late Monday.

Debbie Yoho, 823 Clinton Ave., took her daughter, Jennifer S. Yoho, to the emergency room shortly before midnight, Washington C.H. police officers reported. Mrs. Yoho reportedly told investigating officers the child had taken an unknown amount of pills while at a neighbor's house. It was unknown what type of pills the girl had taken.

The girl was treated and later released from the hospital, according to the police report.

Vandalism report probed by police

The windshield of a pickup truck was broken Monday morning while the vehicle was parked in front of a Forest Street residence.

Harold Southward, 314 Forest St., reportedly told Washington C.H. police officers the window was cracked by some kind of projectile around 9 a.m. An estimated $60 damage was done in the incident.

A Greenfield area resident reported to Fayette County sheriff's deputies someone made "indentations" in the side of his house sometime between Friday and Monday morning. Lloyd McCloud Jr., of Rt. 1, Greenfield, reported the incident. The amount of damage was undetermined.

Sheriff's deputies stated the damage may have been caused by the firing of a BB gun.

Letters from R-H readers

EDITOR, RECORD-HERALD:

It seems to this writer, that not gradually, but by leaps and bounds, the U.S. citizen is losing his say in the conduct of his government-whether on the local, state or federal plain.

We no longer abide by the government of the land, but by executive directives, whether local or on the federal level. Be it HUD, EPA, with its directives in sewage disposal, emission control, etc., etc., the Interior Department with its directions on "flood plains", which prohibit building and lending moneys in stated areas of most every locality in the country, the economy of our Dear Country, is being saddled with costs beyond bearing.

None of us object to paying for services rendered but when we are saddled with automobiles that consume twice the petroleum because of being burdened by emission control systems; when the property owner is taxed for the sewage disposal bill of a tenant who has agreed to pay for this personal service; when property values plummet because his has been determined as being in a supposed flood plain - all of these items being because of executive directive orders and not by the legislative branch - it is the personal opinion of this writer that it is high time to return to the intention of the founders of this great country - that of laws by the legislative branch of our government instrumentalities - the referendum.

Stolen motorcycle found by officers

A motorcycle, reported stolen over the weekend, was recovered Sunday by Washington C.H. police officers.

According to a police department report, a red and silver model Honda was discovered in Paint Creek just west of the S. Main Street bridge. Cecil Spears of 323 S. Main St. reported to police he saw the rear wheel of the trailbike sticking out of the water along the creek bank.

Investigating officers reported the cycle had a bent front fender and an engine full of water when they pulled it from the creek about 2 p.m. Sunday. The seat and keys were also reportedly missing at the time of the recovery.

The motorcycle had been reported stolen a few hours earlier by Kelly Maiden of 417 S. Fayette St. The vehicle was taken from Maiden's back yard sometime after 1:30 p.m. Friday.

Sports writer says Cosell struck him

NEW YORK (AP) — A Philadelphia sports writer says he was struck several times by sportscaster Howard Cosell on an airplane. But Cosell called the claim a joke, and said he gave the writer "a friendly chuck under the chin."

Stan Hochman of the Philadelphia Daily News said Monday the incident occurred just before a late night flight from Los Angeles to New York after the fifth game of the World Series Sunday.

PROPOSED AMENDMENT TO THE OHIO CONSTITUTION

PROPOSED CONSTITUTIONAL AMENDMENT

To amend Article VIII of the Constitution of Ohio by adopting Section 14

1. TO AUTHORIZE THE STATE TO LEND ITS AID AND CREDIT TO INDIVIDUALS, ASSOCIATIONS, COMPANIES, OR CORPORATIONS, TO BORROW MONEY, AND ISSUE BONDS OR NOTES TO PROVIDE FOR HOUSING AND THE REHABILITATION OF HOUSING, AND TO MAKE DIRECT LOANS FOR LOW AND MODERATE INCOME HOUSING.
2. TO AUTHORIZE MUNICIPAL CORPORATIONS AND COUNTIES, IN THE ABSENCE OF LAWS PASSED BY THE GENERAL ASSEMBLY TO THE CONTRARY, TO DO THE SAME AS PARAGRAPH 1 ABOVE.
3. TO VALIDATE AND RATIFY THE BOND AUTHORITY OF SUBSTITUTE HOUSE BILL NO. 870 OF THE 110TH GENERAL ASSEMBLY.

(Proposed by Resolution of the General Assembly of Ohio)
A majority affirmative vote is necessary for passage.

YES
NO

SHALL THE PROPOSED AMENDMENT BE ADOPTED?

EXPLANATION OF ISSUE No. 3

The Constitution presently provides that the credit of the state cannot be given or loaned except in a limited manner. This amendment would create additional authority for state, municipal, and county governments to loan or give credit as follows:

1. By authorizing the state to lend its aid and credit to individuals, associations, companies, or corporations, to borrow money, and issue bonds or notes to provide for housing and the rehabilitation of housing, and to make direct loans for low and moderate income housing.
2. By authorizing municipal corporations and counties, in the absence of laws passed by the General Assembly to the contrary, to do the same as paragraph 1 above.
3. By validating and ratifying the bond authority of Substitute House Bill No. 870 of the 110th General Assembly.

Moneys raised by taxation cannot be obligated or pledged for the payment of bonds or other obligations issued by the state or to secure the giving or loaning of the state's credit. However, the General Assembly could appropriate moneys into a reserve fund to be used to retire the bonds or to secure the state's obligations in this respect. Bonds which the state issues would have to be revenue bonds or supported by a special reserve fund to which the state had appropriated money since moneys raised by taxation cannot be obligated or pledged for the payment of such bonds or other obligations.

Municipal corporations and counties, in the absence of laws to the contrary, can borrow money, issue bonds or notes, and give and lend their credit to provide for housing and housing rehabilitation. These governmental entities can also make direct loans for low and moderate income housing to the extent that such loans do not contravene laws enacted by the General Assembly.

Under existing law municipal corporations and metropolitan housing authorities are authorized to construct and operate public housing facilities. A municipal corporation, under its inherent home rule powers, has authority to maintain public housing. Under the authority of the proposed amendment (new Section 14) the municipal corporation or any county would be authorized to borrow money and issue general obligation bonds or notes and give or lend its credit to individuals, corporations, or associations to provide for public housing or for the rehabilitation of housing. The borrowing of money or lending of aid or credit by a municipal corporation or county would not be subject to the limitations present in Sections 6 or 11 of Article XVIII of the Constitution. However, they would be subject to the limitations upon indebtedness which are otherwise provided by law and specifically to the current debt limitations on municipal corporations and counties found in Chapter 133 of the Ohio Revised Code.

The proposed amendment provides that the lending of aid or credit is not subject to the limitations of other sections of Article VIII or of Sections 6 and 11 of Article XII of the Ohio Constitution.

Amended Substitute House Bill No. 870 enacted in 1974 by the 110th General Assembly is validated by the amendment. That bill authorized the Ohio Housing Development Authority to sell tax-free bonds and notes to provide financial aid to private persons and associations for the rehabilitation and construction of housing for low and moderate income persons. The Supreme Court held in 1976 that the issuance of revenue bonds by the Ohio Housing Development Authority was not proper under the Constitution and that the enactment of Amended Substitute House Bill No. 870 did not qualify as a valid exercise of legislative power. Consequently, the adoption of new Section 14 would eliminate the Constitutional defects in Amended Substitute House Bill No. 870 and validate that 1974 enactment by the General Assembly.

ARGUMENTS FOR THE PROPOSED AMENDMENT

Ohio's citizens are entitled to live in decent housing. Yet, with skyrocketing interest rates, fewer working people can afford to buy their own homes or to rent safe, sound apartments. Fewer retired persons, and others on fixed incomes, can afford to maintain adequate housing.

Issue 3 will revitalize the housing industry in Ohio. It should provide many of the 100,000 units needed over the next few years by freeing up home construction money at reduced interest rates. More people will be able to afford their own homes.

It will help reduce blight, preserving neighborhoods before they can become slums.

It will encourage rehabilitation of existing housing, promoting more attractive neighborhoods and better use of energy.

It will enable Ohio to use its entire share of federal housing dollars.

It will complement housing programs provided through conventional loans, lowering interest rates for all.

And it will create jobs and put thousands of people to work.

HOW WILL IT WORK?

Tax-free bonds for housing could be sold at rates 2% to 4% lower than bonds offered at regular interest rates.

Over the course of a 30-year, $45,000 mortgage, a 4% reduction on interest amounts to $34,500 or a $96 savings each month.

The projects would be self-supporting, coming from the sale of or rent from the housing. Thirty-nine states already run such programs.

The Air Quality and Water Development Authorities have operated similar programs in Ohio for years, at no cost to the taxpayer.

CONCLUSION

Housing problems are not limited to the poor. The average price of a new home is $48,000 and rising rapidly. This threatens to wreck, for young and old alike, the American Dream of owning a home.

OHIO NEEDS ISSUE 3!

ARGUMENTS AGAINST THE PROPOSED AMENDMENT

This Constitutional proposal would create a jumbo state agency with authority to sell unlimited millions of dollars of revenue bonds and then make direct loans to individuals even though experience in other states has been disastrous for some similar programs.

TV Viewing

By JAY SHARBUTT

AP Television Writer
LOS ANGELES (AP) — In the 1950s, Isaac Kleinerman edited "Victory at Sea," the Emmy-winning documentary on U.S. naval power in World War II. Now, he's working on that war again. But this time, the work involves an aspect of the war rarely seen in TV documentaries here — the Russian front. He's executive producer of a coming 20-part series, "The Unknown War."

It's unique, he says, in that most of the film footage comes from Soviet archives under a contract between Air Time, Inc., the series' New York-based distributor, and Sovinfil, a Russian agency.

The series, narrated by actor Burt Lancaster and written by Harrison Salisbury, The New York Times' Moscow correspondent from 1949 to 1954, will be sold to stations for airing next fall.

Kleinerman, who recently returned from a six-week visit to Russia, says the series starts with Nazi Germany's attack on Russia in June 1941 and ends with Japan's surrender in September 1945.

He candidly noted that the "rough cut" — the initial versions — of the 20 shows were put together in Moscow by Sovinfil editors, but says he has the right to make whatever changes he feels are needed.

He conceded some may feel the series is nothing more than a propaganda exercise by Russia, an effort to revise its history for U.S. viewers.

However, he emphasized, "contractually, we have the right to reject any program we feel is not up to our standards... we want it to be absolutely correct in terms of history, and it's going to be that."

Kleinerman, a respected CBS News documentary-maker for 19½ years until he resigned last August to form his own company, admitted he began work on "The Unknown War" with what he calls "considerable reserve."

"I made a number of films over there (in Russia) and I knew what the problems were," he added. "I know how they do things. But I must say, there isn't a thing I've asked for that they haven't complied with."

Kleinerman, who will leave New York for Moscow in two weeks to continue work on the series, was asked why it's being edited there.

"Because all the films are there," he said. "The logistics (of bringing the rare Russian footage to New York) would have been impossible. They could not ship all that film here."

"And under no conditions could we send over all the film editors, the assistants, to do it over there. Economically, it just wouldn't work."

Kleinerman, who said more than 100 Sovinfil employees are toiling on the series, said he doesn't think the Russians are "trying to slip something over on us" in the making of the program.

He cited as an example Sovinfil's use of footage showing the late Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev — whose name has been expunged from Russian history books — involved in the battle of Stalingrad.

It was done without prompting, Kleinerman said, and "I must say I was surprised. It really convinced me they're really trying awfully hard to present something that's very straightforward, that they have more to gain than lose by playing it straight."

Five appointments made by governor

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Gov. James A. Rhodes has announced appointments and reappointments to four state boards and one commission.

Eleanor C. Bowsher of Upper Arlington was named by Rhodes Monday to a five-year term on the State Accountancy board. The certified public accountant became the first woman named to the board.

George T. Apolzon of Lorain was appointed to a five-year term on the Lorain County Community College board of trustees. Apolzon is president of Marathon Steel Products, Inc.

Rev. Jack E. Watkin of Columbus, pastor of First Baptist Church in Glouster and owner of Jack's Vibrasonic Barber Lounge in Columbus, was named to a seven-year term as the public representative on the Bedding Advisory Board.

Rhodes reappointed Bert L. Wolstein of Pepper Pike to a five-year term on the Cuyahoga Community College board of trustees; Donald G. Rose of Dublin to a eight-year term on the Underground Parking Commission; and Dr. Robert D. Arthur of Springfield to a five-year seat on the Ohio Board of Cosmetology.

Computers used in spine cases

CLEVELAND (AP) — Computers are being used at University Hospitals here to prevent delicate spinal surgery from resulting in paralysis.

Computer monitoring of spinal surgery has been tested since 1972, and although the use of the computers is still considered experimental, wide interest has developed since surgeons report continued success in using the machines.

Patients' brain waves are monitored during spinal surgery to determine if electric shocks to the limbs are transmitted along the spine to the brain.

Anesthetics usually prevent surgeons from detecting those impulses, sometimes resulting in damage to the spinal cord during typical operations correction of spinal curvature.

The Cleveland hospitals reported that in 75 spinal operations, the computer spotted potential danger four times. In two of those cases, operating doctors were able to alter their procedures to prevent paralysis.

The appropriate way to realize our housing needs is to work through traditional lenders, not another layer of government bureaucracy which first needs to be put into place, and then will have to develop an expertise to match its responsibilities.

This proposed amendment to our Constitution would allow an undetermined millions of dollars of bonds to be issued, and would then allow this huge state agency to make loans directly to individuals, as well as companies and associations. Those favored by selection for loans are thereby enabled to harness taxpayers' funds for their private gain. Whatever the rationale for bypassing the existing network of financial institutions in favor of a state agency to make these housing loans, there seems to be little reason for direct loans to individuals.

The voters of Ohio have recently expressed their distaste for this type of arrangement, and at least two sister states have been to the brink of default on obligations due resulting from the severe strain on their resources by housing authority programs that are substantially similar. The potential for abuse is staggering, not only due to political currents, but also due to sheer lack of experience residing in the agency. Allegations that construction funds were improperly spent was a key factor in the virtual collapse of the New York State Urban Development Corporation.

The proposed changes to the Constitution spring from motives held by a great many citizens of this state who recognize the need for the revitalization and construction of housing, but this method of doing so is ill-advised.

SHALL THE PROPOSED AMENDMENT BE ADOPTED?

EXPLANATION OF ISSUE No. 4

Constitutional provisions currently in effect prohibit the state from borrowing more than $750,000. A number of exceptions to this limitation are now in the Constitution.

This proposed Constitutional amendment provides for revised limitations upon state indebtedness. The proposed amendment authorizes the General Assembly by two-thirds concurrence of each house to contract debt for capital improvements by the state or to provide funds to local governmental entities for such purposes, within the limitations that payments on the state's total outstanding debt shall not exceed 6% of the state's annual revenues and debt contracted in any fiscal year shall not exceed 8% of the total revenue that is subject to the General Assembly's appropriations.

The General Assembly is required to provide for the retirement of at least 4% of the state's outstanding indebtedness each year and provide the method, procedures, and appropriations for incurring, evidencing, refunding, and retiring of state debts.

The amendment provides additional authority for general obligation indebtedness for capital improvement or other purposes which may be contracted by a three-fifths majority concurrence of each house of the General Assembly if it is further approved by the voters. Indebtedness incurred in this manner would not be subject to limitations as to size or purpose or be included in the requirement to retire at least 4% of the principal debt each fiscal year.

The amendment provides that the state may contract debt during any fiscal year to meet appropriations of the General Assembly for such fiscal year, if such debt is repaid prior to the end of the fiscal year from state revenues other than borrowed funds.

If the General Assembly should fail to provide the required appropriations the Treasurer of State shall set aside moneys from the General Revenue Fund to provide for the full and timely payment of principal and interest on all state debts.

The Treasurer of State would be required to determine and certify the annual principal and interest payments on outstanding debts, the annual revenues that serve as the basis for determining the debt limitations, and any other financial data necessary for determining the limitations on borrowing authority or the amounts of principal to be retired. The Treasurer's determination would be conclusive for the purposes of this amendment.

The amendment would establish the minimum amounts which shall be appropriated for various purposes from the proceeds of bonds or notes authorized under the capital improvement provisions of this amendment as follows:

- (1) $80 million for state office buildings, including retirement of bonds and notes of the Ohio Building Authority;
- (2) $8 million for energy research or demonstration projects;
- (3) $200 million for transportation, at least one-half of which shall be for roads and bridges maintained by counties, townships, and municipalities;
- (4) $64 million for mental health and retardation facilities;
- (5) $80 million for correctional institutions;
- (6) $80 million for parks and recreation;
- (7) $35 million for water development;
- (8) $43 million for higher education;
- (9) $30 million for elementary and secondary education school building modernization or replacement;
- (10) $20 million for the multi-purpose senior citizens' center.

An amount not exceeding 15% of the total amounts enumerated above may be expended for any one of the above enumerated purposes or for any other purpose without all of the required appropriations for capital improvements having been made.

The amendment provides for the repeal of the following present Constitutional provisions:

Article VIII, Section 1 — Imposing a $750,000 limitation upon state indebtedness.

Article VIII, Section 2 — The authority for the state to borrow for the suppression of insurrection or to defend the state in wartime is transferred from Section 2 to Section 1, and Section 2 is repealed. The indebtedness incurred for these purposes is not made subject to the revenue-linked limitations or the 4% retirement limitation.

Other sections of Article VIII which provide for the World War II Compensation Fund, debt and bond-issuing authority for highway purposes, the Korean War bonus, state capital improvements, public works, and the issuance of development bonds are repealed. Sections of Article VIII which prohibit debt except as authorized by Sections 1 and 2 of Article VIII, require creation of a Sinking Fund for debt retirement, require a biennial report of the Commissioners of the Sinking Fund, and specify the duties of the Commissioners to repay debt are also repealed. Section 6 of Article XII, which prohibits the state from contracting for internal improvements except as otherwise provided in the Constitution, is repealed.

ARGUMENTS FOR THE PROPOSED AMENDMENT

This Constitutional Amendment would REPEAL THE $750,000 DEBT LIMIT ESTABLISHED IN 1851 and replace it with a flexible debt tied directly to the state's revenues.

The bi-partisan Ohio Constitutional Revision Commission recommended this Amendment, indicating that a "flexible debt limit," responsive to the state's ability to repay, is the best solution for modernizing the mechanism by which Ohio incurs debt for capital improvement purposes.

Recognizing the preference of the people of Ohio for Constitutional control in fiscal matters, this amendment contains the following restrictions:

1. Issuance of bonds WOULD REQUIRE A TWO-THIRDS VOTE OF BOTH HOUSES OF THE Legislature.
2. PRINCIPLE AND INTEREST OWED on bonds to be issued and on all outstanding bonds CANNOT IN ANY ONE YEAR EXCEED 6% of the average of the state's revenues for the preceding two years.
3. The DOLLAR AMOUNT OF BONDS ISSUED in any fiscal year CANNOT EXCEED 8% of the average of the state's revenues for the preceding two fiscal years.
4. AT LEAST 4% of the total debt MUST BE REPAID EVERY FISCAL YEAR.

The adoption of the amendment would:

1. PREVENT EXCESSIVE BORROWING, while allowing borrowing without undue delay;
2. EXPAND THE STATE'S ABILITY TO BORROW in times of rising revenues, and to reduce it in times of declining revenues;
3. PREVENT THE CLUTTERING UP OF THE CONSTITUTION with unnecessary financial detail;
4. REDUCE THE NUMBER AND EXPENSE OF STATEWIDE ELECTIONS on matters of debt;
5. UPON APPROVAL OF THE ELECTORATE, permit long-term borrowing outside the debt limit, or for purposes other than capital improvements, or in those emergency situations where such authority presently exists;
6. PROVIDE OHIO WITH A SAVINGS IN INTEREST COSTS by refinancing some of its revenue bonds with general obligation bonds;
7. INCREASE THE FISCAL FLEXIBILITY OF THE STATE by permitting it to borrow to meet appropriations, while requiring that all money borrowed for this purpose is repaid within the fiscal year in which it is borrowed.

Committee for the Amendment: Marcus Roberto, Anthony J. Celebrezze, Jr. and George Tablack

ARGUMENTS AGAINST THE PROPOSED AMENDMENT

Senate Joint Resolution #3 will set a dangerous precedent that could lead Ohio down a road laden with red ink and increased taxes.

The amendment would erase a fixed debt limit that has been part of our Constitution since 1851. It proposes to replace the current limit with a flexible debt that would be allowed to soar, with fluctuating limitations, as lawmakers respond to public pressure for more expensive services. Legislators mindful of public resistance to new taxes have been bound by the restrictive debt limit to the revenue they could raise in a biennial budget period. Senate Joint Resolution #3 eliminates this provision and instead turns legislators loose with our pocketbooks.

Not only will we have the issuance of more bonds for capital improvements around the state, but this proposed amendment allows unlimited short-term borrowing to pay state operating expenses within a fiscal year. Short-term borrowing against current deficits may be a convenient, but certainly a misguided way to forestall increased taxes or reductions in services.

The federal government is in a constant struggle to control an expanding national debt. It has grown to the point where interest payments on the $700 billion debt now account for the third largest expenditure of the federal government after national defense and human resources. The New York City debacle has shown us how fragile a credit rating is when the budget can't be balanced. Ohio is currently fiscally sound and must protect herself from falling into such a trap.

Proponents of the bill say percentage limits will be in effect and Ohio, through this law, will never fall irretrievably into debt. But existing law has an absolute limit that insures the state's fiscal integrity. Current law insures the public that legislators are not granted blank credit cards to incur debts.

ISSUE 4

(Amended Senate
Joint Resolution No. 3)

JOINT RESOLUTION

Proposing to enact new section 1 of Article VIII, and to repeal sections 1, 2, 2b, 2c, 2d, 2e, 2f, 2g, 2h, 3, 7, 9, and 10 of Article VIII and section 6 of Article XII of the Constitution of the State of Ohio, to replace the existing debt limit and authorizations with a flexible state debt limit for capital improvement purposes, to empower the General Assembly to create certain additional and limited debt to require the General Assembly to provide methods and procedures for incurring and retiring state debt, and to repeal obsolete and unnecessary sections.

Be it resolved by the General Assembly of the State of Ohio, three-fifths of the members elected to each house concurring therein, that there be submitted to the electors of the state in the manner prescribed by law at the general election to be held on the first Tuesday after the first Monday in November, 1977, a proposal to amend the Constitution of the State of Ohio by enacting new section 1 of Article VIII, and repealing sections 1, 2, 2b, 2c, 2d, 2e, 2f, 2g, 2h, 3, 7, 9, and 10 of Article VIII and section 6 of Article XII thereof, as follows:

ARTICLE VIII

Section 1. (A) The state may, by law passed with the concurrence of two-thirds of the members elected to each house of the General Assembly, contract debt for capital improvements, capital acquisitions, land, and interests in the foregoing, and for gifts, loans or contributions to municipal corporations, counties, school districts, or other state or local governmental entities, agencies, or instrumentalities for such purposes, and for refunding debt contracted and other obligations incurred for such purposes. The debt for such purposes shall not be contracted if, in any fiscal year, the amount required for principal and interest payments on such debt, and on all outstanding debt previously contracted, less any federal subsidies for any such principal or interest, would exceed six per cent of the average of the annual revenues of the state subject to appropriation by the General Assembly, excluding borrowed moneys, moneys received from the Federal Government, and moneys required to be returned by Section 9 of Article XII of this Constitution, received by the state during the then two preceding fiscal years. New debt for any purpose shall not be contracted in any fiscal year in a total principal amount exceeding eight per cent of such revenue average.

(B) The state may, by law, contract debt to repel invasion, suppress insurrection, or defend the State in war.

(C) The state may, by law, contract debt in addition to that, or for purposes other than those provided for in division (A) or (B) of this section, but only if the General Assembly, three-fifths of the members of each house concurring, submits the question of contracting such debt to the electors, and the question is approved by a majority of those voting on the question. The manner of submitting such questions shall be provided by law.

(D) The state may, by law, contract debt during any fiscal year to meet appropriations by the General Assembly for such fiscal year, but such debt shall be paid not later than the end of such fiscal year, and shall be paid from revenues of the state other than borrowed moneys.

(E) Debt contracted pursuant to division (B), (C), or (D) of this section shall not be included in the limits of, nor be subject to the requirements of, division (A) or (G) of this section. Section 11 of Article XII does not apply to debt contracted pursuant to this section. (F) The General Assembly shall provide by law for the payment of the state debt and for the method and procedure for incurring, evidencing, refunding, and retiring state debt. The General Assembly shall appropriate sufficient moneys as will provide for the full and timely payment of the principal of and interest on the state debt. If the General Assembly does not, at any time, make such appropriations or if moneys to meet appropriations therefor are not provided, the Treasurer of State shall set aside from moneys held to the credit of the General Revenue Fund and from the first revenues of the state applicable to the General Revenue Fund and any other appropriate funds of the state sufficient sums to provide for such full and timely payment and shall so apply the moneys set aside.

(G) At least four per cent of the total principal amount of debt outstanding at the beginning of a fiscal year shall be paid, or moneys for such payment set aside, during such fiscal year. For the purposes of division (A) of this section, the General Assembly shall provide for computing required principal and interest payments, and may provide for estimating principal and interest payments on bonds while notes in anticipation thereof are outstanding, for including principal and interest payments on debt contracted to refund or retire prior debt in lieu of such payments on such prior debt, and for the method of computing principal and interest payments on any debt required to be retired, or for which sinking fund deposits are required prior to maturity. The Treasurer of State shall determine and certify the annual principal and interest payments on outstanding debt, the revenues of the state subject to appropriation by the General Assembly, and other financial data necessary for the purposes of division (A) of this section, and such certification shall be conclusive for purposes of the validity of any debt contracted pursuant to such division.

(H) For the purposes of this section, "debt" means general obligations of the state to repay moneys borrowed by the state for which repayment the faith, credit, and taxing power of the state are pledged.

EFFECTIVE DATE AND REPEAL
If adopted by a majority of the electors voting on this amendment, the amendment and schedule shall take immediate effect and Sections 1, 2, 2b, 2c, 2d, 2e, 2f, 2g, 2h, 3, 7, 9, and 10 of Article VIII, and Section 6 of Article XII shall be repealed from such effective date.

Schedule
From proceeds of bonds or notes authorized pursuant to Division (A) of Section 1 of Article VIII not less than the following amounts shall be appropriated for capital improvements, capital acquisitions, land, and interests in the foregoing, for the following purposes:

- (1) $80 million for state office buildings, including retirement of bonds and notes of the Ohio Building Authority;
- (2) $8 million for energy research or demonstration projects;
- (3) $200 million for transportation, at least one-half of which shall be for roads and bridges maintained by counties, townships and municipalities;

Judges ponder suits on fire

NEWPORT, Ky. (AP) — Two judges have been asked to decide whether the doctrine of sovereign immunity can be used as a shield from liability in connection with the fire at the Beverly Hills Supper Club that killed 164 persons.

Attorneys nearly filled a small courtroom here Monday for a joint hearing by U.S. District Court Judge Carl B. Rubin and Campbell County Circuit Court Judge John Diskin.

The two judges took the matter under advisement following an hour-long hearing. There was no word when a decision might result.

More than $1.5 billion in damages are sought in 51 suits filed so far in state and federal courts as a result of the May 28 fire.

Rubin expressed doubt that the state could be sued in a federal court in a case of this kind.

"I don't see how you can sue the state in federal court on a diversity question," the federal judge said. He also questioned claims that the Commonwealth of Kentucky was limiting its liability.

"Clearly a state can limit its sanctuary," Rubin said. "Doesn't the legislature have the right to pass laws that you or I don't agree with? Isn't that a legislative prerogative?"

Attorney William Bertelsman, representing those seeking to dismiss the sovereign immunity claim, called the concept a "patchwork quilt" as it was practiced in Kentucky.

He argued that help could be sought from the board of claims, but that the financial benefits might not be enough and that other avenues for redress might be closed.

Bertelsman labeled the concept, rooted in English common law, a "pernicious doctrine." He said it caused a denial of equal protection and of due process and human rights.

"That concept of royal prerogatives has no place in a government of laws rather than a government of men," Bertelsman said.

Victor Fox, assistant attorney general for the commonwealth, elaborated on Rubin's concerns about whether the state could be treated as a citizen in such a suit.

"That jurisdiction has been given to the board of claims," Fox said. "It is not the jurisdiction of the circuit court."

A.J. Jolly, representing the city of Southgate, Ky., said liability would impose an unfair burden on the residents of this small northern Kentucky community.

"Extraction of money from this type of person would be a denial of due process," Jolly said.

Panthers keep on rolling along

SCOL rapidly becoming Black and Gold division

By MARK REA
Record-Herald Sports Editor

You've undoubtedly heard of the NFL's Black and Blue division. Well, the South Central Ohio League is rapidly becoming Southern Ohio's Black and Gold division. Everywhere you look, Miami Trace is either leading in stats or is trailing a close second.

The Panthers could finish the season today and no one could catch them in offensive team performances. The Panthers have rolled up 2062 yards on the ground with the help of seniors Dennis Combs and David Creamer and have passed for 1058, most of that coming out of the right hand of Art Schlichter for a grand total of 3120 yards in six contests. And, that total is indeed grand when you figure it averages to 520 yards a game.

On defense, Trace is every bit as stingy and they are powerful on offense. Opposing teams who have tried to run on the Panthers have gained only 295 yards, an average of less than 50 each game.

Opposing team who have tried to pass on the Panthers have gained only 301 yards, an average of 50 each game. When the total yardage averages to 520-100 each game, no wonder they win all the time.

Of course, games are not won with total yardage, they are won with points. The Panthers have caused scoreboard circuit overloads everywhere they go, already having run up 366 points in their favor. That's an average of 61 each game and if they continue at that pace, they will have scored 610 points in one season, a brand new SCOL record that no one may ever touch again.

Despite gaining less than 100 yards versus the Panthers, Hillsboro remains second in team offense. They have scored 101 points in six games and have gained 1452 yards. Surprising Teays Valley now ranks third with 91 points and 1249 total yards. Wilmington is fourth with the same amount of points and 10 fewer yards.

Circleville, now 3-0 in league play, has the second leading defense in the SCOL, just two touchdowns behind the Panthers. Something has to give this week ... the Tigers play at Miami Trace's Homecoming.

Circleville has allowed 1082 yards but just 56 points. Greenfield McClain got their defense back in gear last week, limiting Washington C.H. to just six points and they rank third having allowed just 844 yards and 68 points. Washington is further down the pack, ranking fourth and having yielded 1308 yards and 100 points.

Still on the bottom of both lists is Madison Plains. The Eagles, now with a 15-game losing streak, still show minus rushing yardage for the year despite totalling 31 against Teays Valley. They are the only team not over 100 yards offensively and the only team over 2000 yards defensively. They have been outscored 248-26, an average of 41-4.

Bruce Ford of Hillsboro still leads the league in rushing, but his lead was chopped in half as he gained only 32 yards against Miami Trace. Still, he is having a fine season with 739 yards, an average of 123.2 each game.

Dennis Combs of Miami Trace ranks second again with 632 yards and an average of 105.3 yards each game. Larry Brickle of the Blue Lions is still hanging onto third place with 490 yards and an average of 81.2 yards a game. David Creamer of the Panthers is fourth with 421 yards or 70.2 yards each game.

Randy Seldon of Greenfield, who ranked fourth one week ago, fell all the way to 17th place in the rushing when Washington C.H. shackled him with minus three yards on 12 carries.

You don't have to be a fan of high school football to know who leads the league in passing. Schlichter celebrated his return to the lineup after resting for one game to throw for 224 yards last week, completing 11 of 21 attempts. For five games, he is now 58-100 for 888 yards, an average of 178 yards a game.

Ranking second is still Chris Emrich of Madison Plains. Emrich has the poorest percentage among SCOL passers (30 for 93 for 32 percent) but is second in yardage with 491. Allan Storer at Greenfield is third in just four games with 412 yards.

Creamer and Combs are leading the league in scoring with 78 and 76 points respectively. Between those two running backs and Schlichter's 68 points, the Trace backfield has accounted for 222 points. Ranking fourth is Brickle with 60 points, fifth is Shane Riley of Panthers with 38 and sixth is Scott Grooms, also of Miami Trace with 34 points. That makes the top six scorers in the league from Fayette County and five of the six from the Panthers.

The SCOL will feature five games this week with three of them being league contests. The highlight of the night will be the game for the SCOL crown between the Panthers and Circleville at MTHS. Also on tap is Washington C.H. at home against Wilmington, Madison Plains at Hillsboro and Teays Valley at Hamilton Township in Franklin County Stadium. Greenfield McClain will play at Dayton Chaminade-Julienne on Saturday evening.

Moeller ready to bring home Bacon

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Cincinnati Moeller, capturing the attention of national news media, has a rumble in its own backyard Friday night that worries Coach Gerry Faust.

Moeller, considered by some as the nation's best high school football team and solidly entrenched as Ohio's No. 1 Class AAA power, must tangle with Cincinnati Bacon.

"They've got a good defense," Faust said of Bacon, once beaten in six games this fall. Moeller, meanwhile, has won 51 straight regular season games, yet trails Bacon in the Greater Cincinnati League.

Buckeyes move up to fourth

Michigan, Texas still top AP

By The Associated Press

Colorado's tie with Kansas, Nebraska's loss to Iowa State and Kentucky's victory over Louisiana State caused a major shakeup in the Top 20, but top-ranked Michigan and No. 2 Texas continue to dominate The Associated Press college football poll.

Michigan, 6-0, swamped previously-unbeaten and 14th-ranked Wisconsin 56-0 and received 47 first-place votes and 1,100 points to hold the top spot. Texas, 5-0, a 13-9 winner over Arkansas, got eight first-place ballots and 1,014 points from a nationwide panel of 56 sports writers and sportscasters.

Alabama, Ohio State, Southern Cal and Oklahoma all moved up one notch as a result of the 17-17 tie with Kansas by Colorado, which fell from third to seventh.

Alabama, 4-1, which beat Tennessee 24-10, was third with 811 points; Ohio State, 5-1, moved to fourth with 700 points after beating Iowa 27-6; Southern Cal, 5-1, got 638 points and advanced to fifth by beating Oregon 35-15, and Oklahoma, 5-1, jumped to sixth with 638 points after edging Missouri

Moeller beat Cincinnati Elder 14-8 in its only league assignment this year.

The National Broadcasting Co. is concentrating on Moeller this week after the American Broadcasting Co. was in last week to do a special on the Crusaders.

In their game against New York mythical champion Staten Island Farrell three weeks ago, Moeller attracted writers from the New York Daily News and Sports Illustrated.

In The Associated Press state rankings this week, Moeller piled up 314 points to 262 for runnerup Canton McKinley.

Elyria Catholic and Hanoverton Elder remained in the other division leads.

Elyria Catholic, like Moeller a defending Ohio playoff champion, collected 249 points to 213 for No. 2 Cincinnati Wyoming in Class AA. United earned 274 points while second-place Sullivan Black River had 230 in Class A.

Elder moved up one notch to fourth place behind No. 3 Washington Court House Miami Trace in Class AAA. Once-beaten Massillon and Lakewood St. Edward also advanced one spot to fifth and sixth.

Figueroa packs his bags

LA, Yanks brace for Game 6

NEW YORK (AP) — Mike Torrez and the New York Yankees try to end the baseball season that began last February while the Los Angeles Dodgers rest their hopes on Burt Hooton's knuckle-curveball tonight in sixth game of the 1977 World Series.

The best-of-seven Series returns to Yankee Stadium with the New Yorkers needing one victory for their 21st world title. The Dodgers, trailing 3 games to 2, staved off elimination by winning Sunday and look tonight to Hooton, who beat the Yankees with a five-hitter in Game 2 Wednesday night.

The Hooton victory evened matters at 1-1 before Torrez sawed off the Los Angeles bats in the Series' pivotal game last Friday.

"I can't lay back and be fine," Torrez said Monday. "I have to go right at them, be aggressive on the mound. I know if I pitch a good game and we win, we're world champions."

"I want to win it in a bad way," he said, pointing to his ring finger. "I want the one (the ring) that says 'World Champions.'"

The Dodgers, who want to become the fourth team in history to come back from a 3-1 deficit, hope Hooton's baffling knuckle-curveball will be their savior.

"I'm going to try to keep Mickey Rivers and Willie Randolph (the Yankee's speedy leadoff batters) off the bases," said Hooton. "I think we'll be in good shape if I can do that."

Monday was a day off for travel in this cross-country matchup of traditional rivals. But it didn't stop the Yankees from adding another installment to their daily Soap Opera, which has been spiced with backstabbing, second-guessing, personality clashing and near-firings.

Ed Figueroa, at first designated as the Yankees' sixth-game pitcher, cleaned out his locker on Monday.

Figueroa has been ailing the past few weeks with a sore finger, but said he threw on Saturday and Sunday "and I felt 100 per cent."

Yankee Manager Billy Martin, however, got a different diagnosis after consulting the team doctor and two trainers.

"I know he wants to pitch but I'm not going to take a chance and put a man out there who is not 100 per cent in a big game," said the embattled manager.

Figueroa said Martin had given him permission to go home since he wasn't in the Yankees' pitching plans. So he cleaned out his locker. "Then I came back to my hotel and I heard he was saying that I left the club," Figueroa said. "But he gave me permission. It is just a misunderstanding."

Figueroa said he will be at the big ballpark in the Bronx tonight, as will be some 56,000 fans, a source of some concern to the Dodgers.

During Game 2, the Dodger bullpen was bombarded by bottles and an enormous fruit salad, one piece at a time. As the game ended, right fielder Reggie Smith was beamed by a rubber ball hurled from the upper deck, causing neck and back spasms that continue to bother him.

"The fans? They're gonna be there. The less said about them the better," said Smith, who has contributed two of the Dodgers' eight Series homers, the most by any team since Baltimore had 10 in 1970.

"I'm happy to be going back to Yankee Stadium. It's a big ballpark with big gaps and we're a gap-hitting team."

"It's always nice to play in our home ballpark," said Martin. "We've played real well at home."

But they have lost two straight on their home field six times this season, which is what the Dodgers are counting on here.

WCH seventh grade beats 'Cane

The Washington C.H. seventh grade shut out Wilmington last night, 22-0. Coach Don Gibbs lauded his defense, saying, "They did a super job in their first shutout of the year."

The Blue Lions shined on offense also as Mark Thompson rushed for 120 yards and Tony Marti was four for five in the passing department. The Lions went ahead with 1:47 showing in the first quarter when Marti scored on a five yard run. The conversion pass from Marti to Taylor Gayhart was good for an 8-0 lead.

Later in the second quarter, Marti scored for the one-yard-line to make the score 14-0. And, with 3:00 left in the third period, Marti found Gayhart for a 40-yard touchdown pass and Tyler Terrell ran for the extras.

Monday night football bricks

DENVER (AP) — Step right up and win a Monday night football brick.

Business is booming at the Sweetwater pub since owners began a raffle with the winner getting to toss the brick through a television set at sportscaster Howard Cosell.

Football fans here, upset at ABC-TV for not scheduling their Denver Broncos for a Monday night television appearance and claiming Cosell deliberately has omitted Denver from the halftime highlights on occasion, have taken their ire out on Cosell.

They contend Cosell has the clout within the network to get the Broncos on the tube, but hasn't because he believes Denver has a mediocre team.

The unbeaten Broncos, atop the American Football Conference's Western Division, won their fifth game Sunday, routing the world champion Oakland Raiders 30-7 in Oakland.

Mike Howard, a 26-year-old railroad worker, won the latest raffle and blasted a used black-and-white set even though Cosell, who is working the World Series, did not appear.

Spurred on by a hooting, cheering crowd of Bronco supporters, the bearded Howard tossed a curve through the black-and-white set that would have made Catfish Hunter envious. The television exploded into shards of glass and clouds of dust, the onlookers tossing more taunts at Cosell.

"I like him (Cosell) myself," Howard said after shattering the set on his first try. "But he has a big mouth and is a little obnoxious."

"He cuts the Broncos down a lot and gives them a bad deal. He's from back East and he's just for the eastern teams."

"I think the point of this is it's just fun. Howard is the focal point."

Gerry Brown, manager of the bar, said he began the raffle to drum up business.

"I was thinking that I'd sure like to get a shot at Cosell and we came up with the raffle idea," Brown said.

His only outlay is about $25 a week for a used black-and-white set, he said, and business has picked up five-fold since the start of the season.

Brown said he outlined the idea in a letter to Cosell, and the response was what he expected. "He's not happy about this at all," Brown said.

"He called it an ungentlemanly thing to do and a cheap publicity stunt," Brown said.

The bidding:

East	South	West	North
1 ♠	Dble	2 ♥	Pass
4 ♠	5 ♦	Dble

Opening lead—five of spades.

I have done a lot of bridge teaching in my day, but have always been baffled by why so many players have trouble making use of the number 13. Everyone knows that each player is dealt 13 cards and each suit has 13 cards, but far too many players don't utilize this fact of life as they should. If they would simply invoke the magic number 13 more often, they'd find the play of the cards much, much simpler.

Take this deal where East wins the spade lead and continues with a spade, which South ruffs high. Declarer now plays the ace of diamond, East showing out. It is only trick three, but declarer already has a vast amount of information at his command.

He knows from the play thus far that West started with one spade and four diamonds. He also knows from the bidding that West has at least five hearts headed by the ace (and probably the jack also) because West could not double without the ace and surely would not have bid two hearts with fewer than five of them. Ten of West's cards in three suits are thus known, leaving him with at most three clubs.

South now tries to take advantage of the situation. He realizes that if he simply draws trumps and plays a heart to the queen, he is likely to lose two heart tricks and go down one. To avoid this danger, he cashes the A-K of clubs, plays a trump to the ten and ruffs a club. This runs West out of clubs.

South then draws West's two remaining trumps and leads the king of hearts. West, who now has only hearts left, can do no better than take his ace and return a heart, thus enabling South to score his ten and in that way make the contract.

Alcohol and Pregnancy: New Findings

I hear and read bits here and there about the relationship between alcohol and pregnancy and the health of the newborn baby. I can't find any definite information on the subject. I'm not pregnant now, but expect to be before too long. My husband and I are social drinkers, but I know I can give it up if necessary. — Mrs. H. F., Va. Dear Mrs. F.:

More and more information is accumulating that indicates some hazard to the unborn child if the mother is a drinker — even a social drinker.

A very intensive study was made at the University of Washington on exactly this problem; 1,500 educated, middle-class pregnant women were studied. They were not alcoholics, but primarily social drinkers. The conclusion arrived at was that even moderate drinking (less than two cocktails or glasses of beer or wine a day) may have dangerous effects on the unborn child, especially during the first month or two of pregnancy. This is particularly significant because many women who are social drinkers may not know for one or two months if they are pregnant.

Physicians who are studying this problem, known as the "fetal alcohol syndrome," are surprised that such a danger was not recognized a long time ago. This can probably be explained by the fact that doctors have been more concerned about definite alcoholics in relation to pregnancy than they have been about the average social drinker.

Many birth defects, both physical and psychological, that were previously unexplained are now definitely attributed to the alcohol-pregnancy relationship.

It should be added that many of these studies point to the fact that heavy smokers and heavy coffee drinkers apparently do the unborn child a severe injustice, too. The combination of heavy smoking and even mild social drinking is said to definitely affect the newborn baby's physical health and learning ability.

It should be emphasized that the greatest danger of alcohol, with or without smoking, occurs during the first month of pregnancy.

In the light of these findings, I must advocate that all women who are in the process of family planning should give up all alcohol so that the fetus may grow and develop in the womb without any additional threats to its safety.

Prince Charles slates visit

CLEVELAND (AP) — Although several women have sent photographs of themselves to the British Consulate with hopes of meeting Prince Charles, the 28-year-old bachelor will stick to a ceremonial schedule when he visits Cleveland Thursday.

Mail received by British Consul General Leslie Reid includes an invitation by a young man, offering to take the prince bowling and have few beers and perhaps meet a few girls.

Despite the impossibility of such fraternizations, Reid said Clevelanders will have many opportunities to catch a glimpse of Prince Charles.

"People are invited to watch the arrival ceremony (at Burke Lakefront Airport)," Reid said. "There will be a lot of room at the airport and people will get spots on a first come, first serve basis."

Gov. James A. Rhodes and Cleveland Mayor Ralph Perk will be in the welcoming committee.

Cleveland will be the prince's second stop on his 12-city U.S. tour.

The first sight on the Cleveland tour will be Republic Steel Corp. where the prince will observe steelmaking operations and will chat with steelworkers.

He will plant a tree on downtown's Public Square before dedicating the Cleveland State University Marshall Law School and give a short speech on Anglo-American jurisprudence in the school's moot courtroom after lunch.

Other events will include a visit to the Cleveland Clinic Hospital and a dinner with industrial leaders.

During the evening, the prince will attend a concert by the Cleveland Orchestra and a reception.

More and more people are turning to photographic color prints for decorating accents in the home and they do offer a splash of color that's effective, plus the fact that it's a chance to display your photographic efforts. As you know (or maybe you don't), Kodak now makes 16 x 20 color prints from your slides or Kodacolor negatives. At our place we use lots of 11 x 14 color prints in frames on the wall. But the 8 x 10 color print is still the most popular size and right now you can save money on 8 x 10 color prints because Kodak is having a special on this size, from slides, regular color prints, or from Kodacolor negatives. The deal is that you can get three beautiful 8 x 10 color prints for the price of two from now to November 3. That's right, for every three Kodak 8 x 10 color enlargements or color copy enlargements made from any combination of same-size color slides, or from any combination of same-size Kodacolor negatives, or from any combination of same-size color prints, you pay for two and Kodak makes the third at no charge. How about that?

And there is still a week left on Kodak's prints from slide promotion. With this deal you get one free print with every three prints you pay for from same-size color slides. Good deal! You may want to tune in on one of these promotions.
